AIRMEN BOMB BIG ZEP PLANT

ROMANSHORN, Switzerland, Sept. 25 (AP)—One of Germany's main airplane motor factories was reported today to have been put out of action by bombs from French or British planes staging a raid on the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany, last night.

(The German high command, a dispatch from Berlin said, flatly denied that there had been any air raid on Friedrichshafen.)

(International News Service dispatches from Paris declared the French Air Ministry denied French war planes had raided the Zeppelin base.

SAY ZEPS TRANSFERRED

("We do not know of any such operation," a spokesman said, according to the Intenational news Sevice dispatch.

(Aeronautical circles discounted the report on the ground the risks of a 100-mile flight over German territory to destroy a "disused" base would not be justified. Germany's Zeppelins were last reported in Paris to have been transferred to the interior for useb on a Russo-German air line.)

The first alarm in the Friedrichshafen area—five miles across Lake Constance fromRomanshorn—started searchlights sweeping the skies at 8:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. EST) and a number of anti-aircraft batteries on the German side opened fire. Explosions of a few bombs could be heard here.

The main part of the raid apparently came when a second alarm was sounded at 11 p. m. Military observers on the Swiss side, judging by the dull roars heard here, estimated at least 30 bombs were dropped by the raiders despite heavy anti-aircraft fire, which included tracer bullets.

TELL OF DIRECT HITS

Reports reaching here said several direct hits on the factory were scored, but because the border was closed these could not be confirmed.

These reports said the attack apparently was aimed, not only at Friedrichshafen but also at the little town of Manzell, about three miles up the lake from Friedrichshafen. The Zeppelin works, recently converted into a factory for airplane motors and other parts, opened another plant at Manzell.

It was not known if any of the raiders — whose number also was unknown—were hit by the anti-aircraft fire or by fighting planes sent up to meet them.

War Diary

25th Day

Behind the Front

The German high command appeared convinced today that a full-fledged war with France and England is a certainty despite a warning by Italian commentators against a spread of the European war. Mussolini's plea for an early armistice fell on deaf ears in London which still insisted that the spread of Hitlerism must cease. Apprehensive populations on both sides of the Rhine today wondered where the next strike would be and how. As Russia took over her three-fifths of Poland, she upset calculations and alliances in the Balkan states. Meanwhile tension between Russia and Finland was heightened by the closing of the Neva River to navigation to foreign ships. The trek of thousands of Polish refugees into Hungary continued. There was a strong possibility of a "neutrality bloc" under Italy's leadership in the Blakan and Adriatic areas as an early result of Mussolini's speech Saturday. President Roosevelt was back in Washington to direct his neutrality program battle. The Senate Foreign Relations committee, however, deecided to delay until Thursday action on a bill providing powerful congressional checks on executive discretion on neutrality.

On the Land

Dispatches from the Western front reported today that the French had begun a direct bombardment of main fortifications of the German Siegfried line. The entire front seemed to spring into action with a French pounding particularly at a spot in the Haardt mountains where reconnaissance evidently had uncovered a weak spot.

Warsaw, its streets said by Poles to be littered with dead, its buildings aflame, but its defenders fighting on, today was a smoking example of what modern war means, but it failed to daunt the French and British in their determination not to succumb to any German peace gestures.

On the Sea

Efforts were being made by neutral observers today to identify the British destroyer Berlin sources claimed was sunk by a U-boat in the naval warfare. At Dublin, survivors of the British freighter, Hazelside, sunk by a sub off the Irish coast, said 12 of the crew of 34 were missing. Sinking of the Swedish steamer Gertrud Blatt, carrying a load of pulp wood to England, marked the third neutral ship in two days to be sunk by Nazi craft. Reports from Norway told of heavy cannonading in the North sea which might indicate a naval battle in progress.

In the Air

Swiss cities near Friedrichshaven told of air raids by French or British planes which put out of action a big German airplane motor works housed in the old Zeppelin plant. Despite the official declaration that the war was over in Poland, German planes rained death and destruction on Warsaw with heavy tolls reported. Extent of the general aerial attack on Poland during the early days of the war described by Anthony J. Biddle, Jr., U. S. ambassador to Poland, who declared on his arrival at Paris that 5000 German planes were used in five days to disrupt Polish production and communications.

French Collier Sunk by U-Boat

LONDON, Sept. 25 (INS)—Sinking of the French collier Phryne by a German U-boat off the English coast was disclosed today.

WAR ON WESTERN FRONT

BIG OFFENSIVE by Germans on western front seemed imminent today, as more than 800,000 troops were rushed from eastern front to Siegfried Line. French repulsed three advances of Nazis in Saarbrucken area and then took offensive themselves, recapturing some lost territory. The possibility of German invasion of France through Belgium, Luxembourg, or Switzerland (arrows) was still considered likely. It was thought Nazis might also try to take over The Netherlands as base for bombing Britain. Map also shows Freidrichshafen, where French or British warplanes raided the Zeppelin works last night.

Embargo Bill Delay Won by Borah; Act To Spread Powers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today delayed action until Thursday on the Administration's new neutrality legislation.

The delay was agreed to at the request of Sen. Borah (R.) of Idaho, ranking minority committeeman and opponent of President Roosevelt's proposal to repeal the arms embargo.

A draft of the administration measure, written over the week-end by committee Democrats, was submitted by Chairman Pittman (D.) of Nevada, when the group met this morning

Borah said opposition forces had no disposition to lock the bill up in committee, but added:

GIVES CONGRESS POWER

"I have always had a prejudice against voting on a bill before I have read it."

The new bill carries out President Roosevelt's recommendation for repeal of the arms embargo but provides powerful congressional check.. on Executive discretion.

Members said there was no objection to Borah's request for delay. It was expected the legislation would be reported to the Senate by the end of this week.

Borah told reporters he thought the issue before the foreign relations committee "boils down to two points—whether the arms embargo should be repealed and how much discretion should be allowed the President in administering the law."

SEEKING SUPPORT

A group of committee Democrats, meeting in closed session for more than five hours yesterday, decided to include two provisions to curtail presidential authority

Committeemen said they were designed to win support from opposition sensators, some of whom have declared a "hell to breakfast"

French Pound 'Weak Spot' on Siegfried Line

PARIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—French troops struck at German positions in the Haardt Mountains today under cover of heavy fire by artillery, which French dispatches said was bombarding main fortifications of Germany's Siegried line.

The entire Western Front sprang to life. Military advices said shells screamed across the Rhine for the first time since the two initial days of the war. The Siegfried and Maginot lines are separated only by the river along the southern half of the frontier.

French troops were hitting at a Haardt Mountain road which winds through some of the most rugged terrain of the Western Front.

A continuation of the Vosges range, the Haardts cover a 20-mile sector between the German town of Pirmasens and French Wissembourg.

POUND "WEAK SPOT"

Apparently the French believed they had found a weak spot in Germany's fortifications where they had depended on rugged country as a protection.

Previous military dispatches from the western front reported French artillery had begun a direct bombardment of the main fortifications of the Siegfried line.

Heavy French batteries, dispatches said, were dropping large-caliber shells on the west wall in an effort to blast German defenders from the heavily-fortified zone.

German guns replied to the bombardment, it was said, but the French declared the Nazi artillery was failing to make direct hits on advanced French positions.

Most of the artillery action was reported centered south of the German town of Saarbruecken and along the Lauter river, where the Maginot and Siegfried lines are closest.

Dispatches said Sunday night was comparatively quiet along the entire front as the Germans failed to renew assaults they have been launching during the past few days with small bodies of troops between the Rhine and Moselle rivers.

TAKE INITIATIVE

Earlier, the French, taking advantage of the lull in German thrusts, it was said, assumed the initiative at several points to consolidate positions and thwart Nazi preparations for new attacks.

French dispatches said the action extended from the Warndt forest on the west to the Bienwald forest in the east, and that fighting occurred near the German cities of

FACES DEATH JURY

Charles Jefferson

Ex-Hub Man Goes On Trial for Girl Murder in Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 25—Charles Jefferson, alias Herbert Goddard, 29, theater talent scout and scion of a Boston family, went on trial here today on a first degree murder charge in the hammer murder of pretty Frances Dunn.

JEAN BOLTON
Chief Witness

The murder victim, one of two 16-year-old Miami schoolgirls allegedly lured from home by promises of theatrical greatness, was found ravished and beaten to death in a swamp two months ago.

With 155 persons called for selection of a jury of 12, State Attorney Phil O'Connell announced he would ask for the death penalty.

Key witness for the prosecution was Jean Bolton, 16-year-old blues singer, who accompanied the dead girl on a two weeks tour through Florida preceding the murder. She told investigators she was held captive for two days before Jefferson was arrested and charged with the other girl's murder.

The accused took the name of Jefferson while working in California. He is the son of the late Major Herbert Goddard of Boston.

Following his arrest, Jefferson blamed his troubles on lack of a steady home and quarrels with his wife, Jay Meredith, New York actress.

The latter told reporters that she had separated from him in October, 1938, and that on her refusal to take him back had received this reply:

"You'll be sorry if you don't. I don't know what will happen but I'll go to any means. You'll have to suffer the consequences. Maybe you'll find some dead bodies around—perhaps people you love."

Jefferson also was indicted here on a charge of kidnaping for ransom—in the case of Miss Bolton—an offense also punishable by death.

Priest Burned Trying to Save Synagog Torah

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—The Rev. William V. Dunn nursed today slight arm burns suffered when he tried in vain to save holy Hebrew scrolls from flaming Temple Emanuel, an imposing white granite building in the heart of the city.

The temple was destroyed yesterday in a four-hour blaze that caused damage estimated by officials at $150,000.

Fr. Dunn, pastor of St. Nicholas Roman Catholic Church, located a block from the Hebrew edifice, ran into the building, but said he was driven back by flames and smoke before he could reach the altar to save the Holy Torah, most sacred possession of a Jewish house of prayer.

MOTHER IN TEARS IN CUSTODY FIGHT

Tears welling in her eyes, 22-year-old Mrs. Eleanor Vanagel of Walnut ave., Cliftondale, a mother at 16, today described in Salem probate court her fruitless attempts to see her six-year-old daughter, whom she said had been spirited away from her by the father.

The father, Edward L. Vanagel, 24, of Central st., Saugus, seeks custody of the girl, Eleanor Stella Vanagel. He charges the mother deserted the girl when she was an infant.

This was denied today by Mrs. Vanagel, who told Judge John V. Phelan that she was forced to leave her husband because of his abusive treatment which began nine months after their marriage on March 11, 1932.

"He gave me a black eye and I was afraid of him," she testified.

"I finally left him in January, 1934. We didn't get along, because he used to hit me. He used to slap my face."

Mrs. Vanagel said she went back to him in February of that year, but when he took her to his parents' home, her father-in-law told Vanagel he could stay but she could not.

The couple took a two-room apartment in Lynn, she said. She added:

Kidnaper Faces Angry Throng

MEDFORD, Ore., Sept. 25 (INS)—Pale and hungry, but apparently otherwise in good health despite her harrowing experience, 14-year-old Evelyn Thompson of Livingston, Cal., was found hiding out near Medford with Harold Merle Busby, 28, who is accused of having lured the child into white slavery.

They were captured by a posse of Oregon State Police, G-men and sheriff's officers. The young girl and her accused abductor were hiding in the thick underbrush foothills of the Applegate river valley, officials reported.

Authorities and their prisoners began the trip back to Merced, Cal., where Busby faces an aroused populace and charges of child stealing and violating the federal white slavery act.

Publisher Shot In Queer Tangle

BENTON, Ill., Sept. 25 (AP)—Carl Choisser, published of the Benton Evening News, was shot three times in the stomach today by a man who stepped from behind a telephone pole to fire at the attorney-newspaper man in the public square. Choisser was taken to a physician's office.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Dillon said the assailant was Dr. George W. Gore, Sr., Choisser's uncle by marriage and father of George W. Gore, Jr., who Choisser was representing in a murder trial set for Oct. 16. Young Gore is charged with murder of his step-mother.

He Loses $30 on Winning Ticket

When a nickel ticket in the number pool hit on Aug. 29 and Francis W. Glancy, 42, of Lowell ave., Watertown, allegedly failed to pay off, Israel Freeman, a Waban tailor, complained to police.

It was a $30 hit, Freeman said, and Watertown police preferred charges of possessing and selling a lottery ticket against Glancy.

There was no evidence, the judge said, against Glancy to show that he had possessed the ticket, that he had sold it or that the ticket was a lottery ticket. Glancy was found not guilty and Freeman, who lives in Blue Hill ave., Dorchester, was out his claimed $30.

Tragedy in Revere Bares Couple's Love

"Greater love hath no man than this: That he shall lay down his life for another—"

Michael and Elizabeth Rispin, elderly Revere couple, today were described in a medical examiner's verdict as victims of "accidental gas poisoning, but behind those impersonable words lay revelations of a love that brought death to one while trying to save the other.

Rispin, 64, had for many years been a steamship company employe. Six months ago, reduced to working on the WPA, according to police, he was stricken by a heart ailment that nearly caused his death.

Stubbornly, he fought against the illness, and he was to have returned to work within a few days.

Mrs. Ralph Vigdor, 24, who lives upstairs in the Crest ave., Revere, home of the Rispins, smelled gas fumes and forced her way into the couple's apartment.

Both were in the bathroom, dead, Mrs. Rispin sitting on the floor, her back against the tub, and her husband crumpled on the floor.

Fumes from the heater that warmed the water had overcome one of the couple, and the other had probably died trying to effect a rescue.

3 Bay State Girls Flee War in Taxi

The story of a harrowing taxicab ride across Belgium and into Holland was told today by two Massachusetts college girls as they landed in New York from the Holland-American liner Zaandam.

The war-thrilled students are Bettina G. Conant of Washington st., Whitman, president of the senior class at Wheaton College, and Natalie Fairchild of Main st., Reading, another Wheaton senior.

With a classmate, Beth Fiske of Cleveland, they represented their college at the School of International Relations in Geneva, Switzerland, and saw more of the relations at close range than they had bargained for.

IN MIDST OF WAR

Caught in France at the outbreak of the war, the girls found frontiers closed, railroads crowded with troop trains, bound for the front, and all regular transportation facilities jammed.

The best thing they could think of was to take a cab to Holland, so they did, the creaking vehicle puffing its way through the welter of wartime traffic which made every north-bound road in France a turmoil.

"It cost us 700 francs, but it was worth it," Miss Conant declared, as the three stepped ashore in New York.

They were to make hasty visits home, then join their classmates at Norton.

Wheaton opened Thursday, but senior class activities have been held up, awaiting arrival of class president Bettina.

Mrs. Charles R. Conant, Bettina's mother, said she had had only one letter from her daughter since the war caught the girls in its dangerous net.

"She wrote that the things she had seen were so heart-rending she wanted to tell me about them, rather than write them," Mrs. Conant said.

THRILLS HER MISERY

"I can't tell you how glad I am to learn they have landed safely at last.

"It may have been a thrilling experience for them, but it was a misery of suspense for me."

The letter she had, Mrs. Conant disclosed, was posted in Rotterdam after the girls' flight across Belgium, under the big guns on the western front, and in the flurry of Belgian mobilization.

Safe in Rotterdam, the three were unable to procure passage on the first three liners leaving for America, but finally got aboard the Zaandam, a ship crowded with war refugees.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild were on the pier in New York to greet their daughter.

New College Honors Coolidge's Memory

Calvin Coolidge College, a memorial to the late Calvin Coolidge, former governor of Massachusetts and President of the United States, is to be erected at Beacon and Walnut streets, it was disclosed today.

It will be a co-educational college of liberal arts, fostered by the Portia College of Liberal Arts, and permission for the use of the famous name has been granted by Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, his widow.

"There is nothing in which Mr. Coolidge was more interested than education," Mrs. Coolidge declared. "I feel that such a memorial would be more fitting than any monument of stone or marble figure."

The drive for funds to erect the new building will be formally launched at a dinner at the Boston Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening, Oct. 10.

Amos L. Taylor, general chairman of the Calvin Coolidge memorial committee, has announced the following list of speakers: Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for vice president in 1936; Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Lieut.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill, Jesse Metcalf, Jeremiah E. O'Connell, Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, Dr. Arthur W. MacLean.

Judge Orders Girl, 2, Returned to 'Mummy'

It took a writ of habeas corpus to accomplish it but dark-haired, winsome little two-year-old Rita Donahue was "mummy's girl" again today.

The new turn in her young life came hard, however—after a deputy sheriff with a court order had taken her from her grandmother's custody.

Rita's "granny," Mrs. Marie Valere of Houghton st., Somerville, didn't want to give her up.

But the child's young daddy, Michael Donahue of Webster ave., Cambridge, told the judge:

HAVE NEW HOME

"My wife and I have a home of our own now, and we want the baby.

"Before we set up housekeeping, my wife's mother cared for little Rita, and now she insists on keeping her."

In a novel legal procedure, Donahue's counsel, Attorney James T. Hill, asked and obtained a writ of habeas corpus, alleging that the child was held against her will. The writ directed that she be brought to court.

Deputy Sheriff J. Fisk Ford, who served the writ and who took temporary custody of the little girl, soon fell a victim, himself, to dark-haired, smiling young Rita's wiles.

HAPPY WITH "MUMMY"

The two-year-old belle reigned like a princess for several hours today in the deputy sheriffs' room at the Middlesex county courthouse.

But the question of whose girl Rita really wanted to be was promptly solved after a brief bench conference called by Judge Joseph W. Monahan in Middlesex probate court.

The child was placed in the arms of her mother, girlish and attractive Mrs. Olive Rita Donahue.

And plainly radiant with happiness at being "mummy's girl" again, Rita waved goodby to sympathetic courtroom spectators, to her deputy sheriff admirers—and to Judge Monahan, himself.

SOON BE BALD

HE now seems to have a good head of hair, but each morning he worries over the hair which he finds in his comb and brush. His hair looks nice on the surface, but his scalp itches constantly and is covered with scaly, sticky dandruff. Unless he does something he will be bald within 5 years, because he has seborrhea oleosa, an oily type of dandruff, which responds only to expert treatment.

He—and you, too—can avoid baldness by doing what a quarter-million other men have done—by consulting Thomas. A Thomas specialist will examine your scalp (without charge) and determine exactly which of the 14 local scalp disorders are causing your hair loss. He will then direct the reliable, 20-year proved Thomas treatment to overcome those scalp ills. Your abnormal hairfall will stop, your dandruff will disappear; and new hair will start to grow on the thin and bald spots. Why not come in today for the free scalp examination, and see for yourself how Thomas is helping others to retain or regain their hair, and how Thomas can help you, too.

FLOYD GIBBONS, 52, WAR WRITER, DIES

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25 (INS)—Floyd Gibbons, one of the world's most famous newspapermen and war correspondents, died last night at his home in Stroudsburg.

The 52-year-old writer, whose rugged features and patch over one eye made his face familiar to millions of households, died of a heart ailment.

Besides rising to the pinnacle of fame as a war correspondent, Gibbons also was a well-known radio commentator with a faculty for speaking as many as 200 words per minute.

Floyd Gibbons

Gibbons' most widely read news "beats" and dramatic eyewitness stories of events on the most active news fronts in the world during the years since the World War were largely written for Universal Service, International News Service and King Features Syndicate.

Born in Washington, D. C., July 16, 1887, he began his newspaper work on the Minneapolis Daily News 20 years later.

Gibbons began with the Chicago Tribune in 1912 and was sent on his first assignment as a war correspondent by the newspaper.

He reported Villa's raid on Columbus, N. M., in 1916, and accompanied General John J. Pershing on a dash into Mexico.

Gibbons became London correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

It was Gibbons who described the sinking of the S. S. Laconia, torpedoed and sunk 200 miles off the Irish coast. He was a passenger aboard the ship.

From England the correspondent sailed to France, where he went to the front lines. He was wounded at the battle of Chateau-Thierry, losing the sight of one eye.

Gibbons was the author of several books, including the Red Knight of Germany and the Red Napoleon.

In Russia during the dread days immediately after the Red revolution he covered various fronts during the foreign intervention and uprisings, when Judenitch, Koltchak, Denikin and finally Wrangel attempted to wrest back the country from Bolsheviks.

After covering the "Black and Tan" troubles in Ireland, he rushed to Berlin for the "Kapp Putsch" to overthrow the German republic in 1920; went to upper Silesia for the bloody riots between Poles and Germans in 1921; was in the Ruhr for the military occupation by the French and Belgians in the next year.

After that he hurried to Poland for Budienny's Red cavalry drive on Warsaw, only checked at the gates of the capital.

Keep Clear of War--Saltonstall Warns Legion Convention

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts today told the 21st annual convention of the American Legion—including 5000 of his own Bay State buddies—they must "maintain the unwavering determination to keep clear of the European war."

He further declared that never has Legion leadership been "so sorely needed" and that we must keep our nation strong. At the same time, he extended the invitation to make Boston next year's convention city.

"Like you, I have seen war," Saltonstall said. "Like you, I hate war. The Legion remembers.

"Upon the Legion rests the solemn duty to make certain that all our people remember, too. The American Legion has the power and the will to do more than any other body to educate the public in the realities of war and, at the same time, to preserve the spirit of true patriotism.

"We hope and pray that Congress, now in special session, will follow a course that is the surest way to keep us out of war. It is for Congress to determine what methods are the best.

"In facing this problem, however, our citizens must realize at the outset how difficult a problem it is. This country is part and parcel of the world. It cannot live alone, no matter how self-sufficient it may be materially or in spirit."

Meanwhile, delegates from every part of the nation predicted a stern battle on the "cash and carry" provisions of the Neutrality Act, as recommended by President Roosevelt.

"This fight will be the chief partment commander of the Massachusetts legionnaires.

He added there had been a shift in sentiment toward the "cash and carry plan within the last 24 hours among Massachusetts veterans, although the majority appeared to still hold to retaining the present arms embargo provisions of the act."

The views of Secretary of War Harry W. Woodring, scheduled as one of three speakers interpreting the Legion's three-fold service to community, state and nation, were presented by his representative, Brig. Gen. Frank M. Andrews.

The Legion, he said, was re-affirming its solemn resolve of 21 years ago—"It Shall Not Happen Again."

Rites Planned For Laemmle

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 25 (AP)—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Carl Laemmle, Sr., 72, pioneer motion picture producer, who died at his home here.

"Uncle Carl," as he was affectionately known in the Hollywood film colony, got his start in the movie world as a nickelodeon proprietor in Chicago in 1906. He eventually established Universal Studio, largest in the industry.

Laemmle also introduced the star system to the screen and made the first million-dollar picture, "Foolish Wives."

NEW ARMS BILL FIGHT DELAYED

fight against removal of the embargo.

The first provision, it was learned, would permit Congress to invoke the neutrality law by a majority vote of both houses. The existing neutrality statute can be invoked only by the President.

The second would require the munitions control board to advise Congress every six months as to the amount of war materials purchased by belligerents, the amounts of credit extended by American companies, and the total credits received by individual foregin governments and companies.

The board now reports annually on purchases of war materials.

Meanwhile, Stephen T. Early, Presidential secretary, told reporters telegrams had been received at the White House urging the Administration to start a countr movement against the mail pouring into congreasional offices urging the legislators not to repeal the embargo.

WON'T STIR POLITICS

"We aren't going to do it," Early said. "We are still standing flatly on the President's appeal to the country for adjournment of politics. We are not going to stir it up."

Early asserted, too, that 4000 radio amateurs in this country had organized themselves voluntarily as "radio detectives" to listen in, check up an dreport to the government on messages they are able to pick up which might be of interest to officials.

It was learned that the State Department has received copies of cablegrams from Germany, in plain and commercial cable codes, being sent to various persons in the United States.

One of the messages which found its way into State Department hands spoke of the congressional session and the neutrality issue, the sinkin gof the steamer Athenia, and urged that the United States not take any unneutral action.

The new bill was said authoritatively to be acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt. It drew praise from Senators George (D.) of Georgia, and Van Nuys (D.) of Indiana, committee members who have been frequent admistration critics on domestic issues.

HIBERNIANS FOR EMBARGO

LAWRENCE, Sept. 25—The Ancient Order of Hibernians and its auxiliary today were on record as favoring retention of all forms of the present neutrality and arms embargo act, following the county convention in Hibernian Hall.

AFL RE-ELECTS BARRY

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 25—John L. Barry, of Manchester, was re-elected president of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor for his 22nd term today.

Heavy 'Sea Battle' Reported Off Oslo

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 25 (AP)—Violent cannonading far out in the Atlantic was reported from several points along the Norwegian coast today, leading observers to believe a naval battle was raging.

Reports from the coastal communities said the bark of big guns could be heard between 8 and 9:3 a. m. (2 and 3:30 a. m. EST).

Hazy weather made it impossible to see any warships, but several German trawlers were observed steaming toward the coast as if fleeing from a battle zone.

The Aftenposten's correspondent at Bergen said the "battle" started last night and continued early today.

People on Norwegian Island Hear Big Guns

BERGEN, Norway, Sept. 25 (AP)—Inhabitants of Algroi island reported this afternoon unidentified ships had been engaged in heavy cannonading off the coast of Norway since 6 a. m. (midnight E. S. T.), leading them to express the belief a naval battle was under way.

The battle—if such it was—apparently was moving closer to the coast, they said. Concussion of large-caliber guns shook houses on the island.

(Cannonading last week in the Kattegatt, a strait between Denmark and Sweden, later proved to be target practice by Swedish batteries.)

Firing stopped temporarily at about 1:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m., E. S. T.), but was resumed half an hour later, island inhabitants said.

Second British Warship Sunk, Berlin Claims

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sinking of a British destroyer by a German submarine was announced in an official communique today as German military leaders were reported preparing for prolonged war on the western front.

Authorities said they had no further details of the sinking of the destroyer. They said a description would have to await the return of the submarine crew.

The same announcement said eight French war planes had been shot down during an airfight in the West, where, it added, there had been "reconnoitering activity and artillery activity on both sides" at various undisclosed points.

14 U.S. Bombers Reach Manila in Pioneer Hop

MANILA, Sept. 25 (INS)—Fourteen United States Navy long range bombers today completed the first mass flight ever attempted between Hawaii and the Philippine Islands.

FISH CREWS AGAIN SEE SUBS OFF HUB

New reports of the presence of German submarines off of the North Atlantic coast—one almost directly off Boston at the northern tip of the Georges Banks—reached here today, with the arrival in port of the Grand Marshal, a fishing schooner.

Twice during the past week Captain Albert Hines and members of the crew sighted what they believe to have been submarines, they reported. Tuesday, off of Cape Sable—both incidents center upon the North Atlantic shipping lanes—they sighted a streak in the water—what appeared to be a periscope—and, afterwards found an oil slick.

That others had seen the same thing, Capt. Hines said, was indicated by the appearance shortly afterwards of a Canadian battle plane, marked S4-P9, which circled the area again and again.

Engineer Charles Williams and members of the crew told of seeing what appeared to be a spar in the middle of the stick the periscope and expressed iself that the sub crew had sighted the Canadian plane and, for that reason, did not rise again to the surface.

Williams told also of speaking crew members of the Robert R. McKenzie, a Canadian fishing craft, off Liverpool, Nova Scotia, near the Grand Banks, who told him they had definitely seen and identified as German a submersible.

The second incident duplicated the first, except there was no airplane, and it happened Thursday off of the northern part of the Georges Banks.

Sape Sable is about 300 miles northeast of Boston. The Georges Banks are due east, the northern end above Boston, the southern end below Cape Cod.

Publish Freud View of Hitler?

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Anna Freud, daughter of the Austrian psycho-analyst Sigmund Freud, who died here Saturday night, may edit and publish his views on the mentality of Adolf Hitler.

She was her father's closest collaborator.

The scientist's son, Martin, said today his father died in a coma, but added:

"His spirit was unbroken by his long illness and even his migration from Vienna at the age of 82."

Freud was forced to leave Vienna a little more than a year ago after the German-Austrian anschluss.

Army Seeks 2000 Recruits in N. E.

The drive to enlist 2000 New England men for the regular army was under way today, with Col. Frank V. Chapin declaring the modern army offers "great opportunity for betterment."

Col. Chapin pointed out that no longer are recruits "mere soldiers" but are given the chance to become experts in whatever branch of service they join. Recruits will replace the 18th Brigade, leaving for Panama next month.

3d Polish Sub Takes Refuge in Sweden

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25 (AP)—A third Polish submarine, the 940 ton Zbik, entered Swedish territorial waters today and surrendered to the Swedish government.

The submarine, with five officers and a crew of 49 aboard, was sighted by the coast patrol which sent out a ship assuming it might be the Polish submarine that escaped from Tallinn, Estonia. Members of the crew said they had been at sea 26 days without fresh food and subsisting on emergency rations.

BRITAIN REJECTS ITALY'S PEACE BID

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Great Britain answered Premier Mussolini's suggestion to call the war quits on Germany's military conquest of Poland by intensifying today her preparations for a fight to the finish.

An authoritative commentary on Mussolini's speech in Rome Saturday declared Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement of Britain's war aim "to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression" still held good.

Britain remained determined, it said, despite the complication of Soviet Russia's occupation of Eastern Poland.

Informed sources, however, said Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, who called Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky to his office for an hour's interview last night, had requested clarification of Soviet aims in Eastern Europe.

REVEAL DEVELOPMENTS

Meanwhile, these war developments were disclosed:

British expeditionary troops moving toward battle positions alongside French pollus who already are on German soil.

Gilbert S. Szlumper, general manager of the Southern Railway, senior transport officer of the British army in the World War, assigned to direct all military transport by land and sea.

British fleet and air force widen warfare at sea, trying to cut off escape of raiding German submarines to hideouts.

Plans made to speed up production in British shipyards to replace the more than 30 merchant vessels destroyed by submarines and mines.

The latest British ship lost was the 4,646-ton freighter Hazelside. Her survivors, put ashore in Ireland, said the ship was attacked and sunk off the Irish coast yesterday by a submarine after an unsuccessful effort to escape.

12 OF CREW MISSING

Twelve of her crew of 34 were reported missing.

Radio Operator Birkett said 15 of the 22 survivors abandoned the Hazelside in a lifeboat which normally holds seven, and that the others got away on a raft. Five of the survivors were injured, one severely, by what Birkett said were 20 to 30 shells fired at the freighter.

A ministry of information communique contended submarine crews, with supplies running low and nerves shaken by the necessity of running a gauntlet of depth charges to get back to port, eventually would crack under scientific hunting methods.

Soviets Bar Ships on Neva River; Capture Poles

MOSCOW, Sept. 25 (AP)—While Russian troops shoved deeper into Poland today, the Soviet government refused to permit foreign ships on the river Neva, which flows through the outskirts of Leningrad into the Gulf of Finland.

The ban, ordered yesterday, was said to have included Finnish ships. A 1923 agreement between the two countries gave Russia the right to close the strategic waterway to Finnish ships in case of "war danger."

Red troopers reported taking many Polish prisoners and arms as they pushed to within about 85 miles of Warsaw, occupying much of the territory formerly held by the withdrawing German army.

The return of wounded Soviet soldier to Moscow, however, indicated the Poles still were putting up a fight.

Little time is being lost in attempting to Sovietize the newly-acquired area. The program, it is said, includes a campaign against landlord and capitalist classes.

YOU'RE one mile ahead with every gallon of gasoline you buy according to hundreds of users of Jenney Solvenized. In fact many tell us they get 2 to 3 miles more per gallon—2 to 3 free miles you, too, might as well have. Here's why Jenney Solvenized Gasoline carries you farther and so costs less—

Jenney is processed with the exclusive patented Solvenized Concentrate which dissolves gum, the binder of carbon. With its binder or cement gone, carbon becomes just so much fluffy powder, and so can blow out the exhaust. This leaves valves and rings free of their sticky, built-up carbon deposits—valves can seat and rings can seal tightly again. Naturally compression is improved, gasoline vapor which used to leak past stuck valves and rings is now kept in the combustion chamber and used to drive your car . . . Of course you get more mileage, more power, faster get-away, better hill-climbing, and you save many expensive repair bills.

Jenney is the only gasoline that can give you this important money-saving Solvenized value. Use Jenney Solvenized and its teammate Solvenoil (the Extreme Pressure Motor Oil) and we guarantee you'll save money, and enjoy a more efficient motor.

Expect Hitler At Hero's Rites

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Adolf Hitler generally was expected to come to Berlin tomorrow from the eastern front for the state funeral for Col.-Gen. Baron Werner von Fritsch, former commander-in-chief of the German army who was killed in action before Warsaw last Friday.

(Reports reaching Paris from the western front said Hitler was in that area Saturday.)

Von Fritsch's body will be brought to Berlin tonight and taken to the War Ministry building where officers will stand a guard of honor. Funeral services will be held in the square before the memorial to World War dead.

NEW 'CONFETTI RAIDS' ON GERMANY

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Ministry of Information announced today the Royal Air Force had carried out new reconnaissance flights over Germany yesterday.

It said planes dropped more propaganda leaflets.

One flight was made in daylight over Western Germany, the communique said, and the second at night over western and northwestern Germany.

"All planes returned safely," it added. There was no serious opposition."

Resumption of Britain's "confetti raids" was announced as Britain intensified preparations for a fight to the finish—that being her answer to Mussolini's suggestion to end the war on Germany's military conquest of Poland.

The scattering of pamphlets by the R. A. F., generally believed to have been Prime Minister Chamberlain's own idea, began in the first week of the war when millions of leaflets were dropped over Germany in an effort to tell the people their leaders were taking them down the road to ruin.

FRENCH SHELL NAZI FORTS

Saarbrucken, Zweibrucken, Pirmasens and Bergzaberg.

Reconnaissance flights were carried out "with success," the French reported.

(A communique issued in Berlin by the German High Command said eight French planes had been shot down.)

A morning communique reported "local improvement" in French positions. The French attacking units, informed quarters said, were seeking to learn the secret behind the recent numerous German assaults on advance positions.

There was some speculation whether the Nazis were putting on a show for the benefit of Fuehrer Hitler, who French sources reported on the front, or whether the Germans were masking hurried troop displacements and new fortifications ahead of the French forces.

The French said they had "annihilated" several German units which yesterday attempted to dislodge troops from dominating hilltop nests in the Saar, Blies and Lauter river regions.

MASS PLANES

Dispatches reported the Germans were massing warplanes at strategic frontier points as far south as the Swiss border.

In this connection observers showed interest in comments made in Paris by Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador to Poland, who estimated Germany had used 5000 planes in a five-day assault on Polish production and communication lines.

Some French sources asserted the German army was not as powerful as the military machine the Kaiser launched against France in 1914, either in numbers or fighting ability.

At the same time the French expressed satisfaction with their famed 75-millimeter field guns, which played such an important part in the World War and which they have been employing effectively to cover advances during the current fighting.

"My husband came in, and without asking any questions slapped me right in the face. I wouldn't know the men if I saw them today.

"I left my husband the next day and took my baby to a friend's house. Later my husband took the child and placed it with Mrs. Powers."

Tears came into the young mother's eyes as she turned to Judge Phelan and continued:

"Every night after work I used to go up and sit in the woods in back of Mrs. Powers' home. Other times, when I was not working, I would try from morning to night to see my baby. Once in a while I could catch a glimpse of her through a window."

She said that on one occasion she waited at a bus stop she kned her husband used and she asked him to let her see the baby, bue he refused.

STORY OF HITLER'S 'TRIGGER MAN'

(This is the concluding chapter in the story of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, he who, through the years, has been Adolf Hitler's Trigger Man and now is No. 2 Nazi and successor to Hitler in the event of Der Fuehrer's death.)

By PAUL WHELTON

CHAPTER EIGHT

As time went on in the early days of Nazi Germany rule, the Third Reich under Adolf Hitler, more and more titles were conferred upon Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi No. 2, and he designed himself more and more uniforms and decorated them with more and more medals.

But Goering really won his letter as Hitler's Trigger Man on June 30, 1934, when he personally superintended the slaying of old Nazi friends and workers in the notorious "blood purge."

The excuse for this wholesale slaughter of the old co-workers was that they were conspiring to undermine Hitler, Goering and his regime which they had battled so long and so hard to attain.

This insubordination was asserted to have been fostered and led by Capt. Ernst Roehm, the homosexual leader of the Storm Troops, whose orgies of an indescribable nature had Hitler and Goering concerned.

The real reason for the slaughter of Roehm, Schleicher, Heines and Ernst may lie in a later report, however, that they, with others, carried out a plot by Hitler and Goering to burn the Reichstag building.

E. Kruse, a former Storm Trooper who had fled Germany in fear that those in the secret would be disposed of to insure their silence, revealed the arson plot in London a short time after the "blood purge."

According to Kruse's revelation, Capt. Roehm, Capt. Ernst and Heines were delegated to carry the firing plot through. At a secret meeting they selected 11 Storm Troopers, of whom Kruse was one, to do the work. All were sworn to secrecy.

The Reichstag was duly set ablaze and the half-witted Dutch youth, Van Der Lubbe, was used as a dupe, convicted and beheaded —despite a promise that he would be jailed for only a short time and then secretly freed if he "took the rap" and sent to America with plenty of money.

Kruse said that he and the other Storm Troopers actually set the fire, leaving Goering's home on their mission, using the underground passage from the Goering home to the Reichstag building—and then cutting back to the house when their work had touched off the blaze.

According to Kruse, the Storm Troopers, a short time later, began to disappear mysteriously, one by one, and he heard that Roehm, threatened with being displaced in the troop, threatened in return to reveal the plot. It was then that Kruse departed Germany.

At any rate, Hitler and Goering had a long secret conference on June 29, 1934. Early the next day the slaughter began.

The Third Reich was born with Hindenburg's death in mid-summer. The Rags-to-Riches climb of Hitler and Goering had been accomplished—with the stepping-stones a progression of corpses, alike of friend and foe.

With the assumption of sovereign power by the ex-paperhanger, Goering became his alter ego. To no man does Hitler owe greater thanks and loyalty.

In the spring of 1935, Goering was married a second time to Fraulein Emmy Sonnemann, a buxom actress who also had been married before.

Goering's power is practically unlimited.

Although he has had hundreds of his comrades shot without turning a hair, he remains Germany's most popular official.

Now, as the war guns thunder and the black clouds hang over all Europe, he and Hitler and the other Nazi leaders have wagered all their destiny on one long roll of the international dice.

The Rags-to-Riches Boys are putting an awful strain on Lady Luck.

THE END

STARS 'PAIN IN NECK' TO GEORGE KAUFMAN

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Stars are a pain in the neck" to Playwright George S. Kaufman, whose new comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," written in collaboration with Moss Hart, opens tonight at the Plymouth.

"If a play is good," he said, last night, at the Ritz-Carlton in the first interview he has granted in 20 years, "it doesn't need a star. If it's a bad play, no star in the world can save it."

"The general trouble with stars is that after three or four months they own your play.

"They decide how long and where they will play the show. If you're wise, you'll simply make them a present of the play."

Mr. Kaufman doesn't think the war situation will affect the theater commercially.

"The public wants to see a good play, whatever its subject, any time," he said.

As a playgoer, Mr. Kaufman admits he never applauds.

Both he and his collaborator, Moss Hart, will be present at tonight's opening at the Plymouth. He'll be the tall, frowning guy with the flight-wig of black hair who's doing a marathon in the back of the theater. Like Hart, he hates to go to their own openings but it's "almost impossible to stay away unless the play's a stinker."

The writing team of Kaufman and Hart have turned out such sensational stage hits as "You Can't Take It With You," "I'd Rather Be Right" and "The American Way."

About those interviews Kaufman has denied his public these 20 years, he says that as drama editor of the New York Times, he never thought that just because a man came back from Europe, got married or divorced or wrote a play what he had to say had any value.

A Defense By Oratory

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

This extra session of Congress is a national defense by oratory. When the boys get started they can out-talk a Fuller brush man on his own doorstep.

It's all for the good of the country, for freedom and for the Congressional Record.

We admire our legislators even though a Congressman is a man who will stop in the middle of his own speech and holler that somebody has changed the subject.

KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR
—Be Neutral—

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS not due primarily to the operation of trains have been alarmingly frequent of late.

Most of these were derailments caused by settling of roadbeds due to faulty design or hasty construction.

Within the past few months trains have been wrecked at Artesia, N. M.; at Soledad Canyon, near Saugus, Cal.; near Ranger, Tex., and near the Grand Canyon, Ariz. Defective rails, settling earth fills and entrance to curves were blamed in these instances.

Then, near Chatsworth, N. J., a modern speed train was derailed while passing over an old track bed through inundated cranberry bogs. By the greatest luck, no one was killed and only 17 were injured.

These accidents should forcibly call attention to the fact that speed transportation—both of freight and passenger trains—is as much or more a matter of fast tracks as it is of fast trains.

Comfort as well as safety in fast transportation calls for modern roadbeds which are devised to sustain the arduous demands of a new, imponderable but detectable factor: immense velocities.

The railroads, in the past five years, have accomplished an advance in speed greater than the advance between the 1860's and the 1900's. The speed has been doubled, making it necessary that the safety factor in roadbeds be at least tripled. But in many cases, modern streamliners are using roadbeds meant for the old trains and adequate for them alone.

The railroads, which have made such a splendid record of progressiveness in the past few years, cannot afford to ignore or overlook this necessity.

LAWYERS' FEARS that the legal profession is becoming overcrowded in Massachusetts have little effect on youth.

Seven hundred and eight persons, the majority young people, took the last examination for admission to the bar. Two hundred and twenty-three passed, and they are now awaiting their formal acceptance by the Commonwealth's highest tribunal.

At least 800, including scores of previously unsuccessful candidates, are expected to try the test that will be given two months hence.

It is easy to understand law's attraction. Of the 435 members of the National House of Representatives, 262, or 60.2 per cent, are qualified to practice law. Ninety-six Senators, 83.3 per cent of that venerable body's membership, are lawyers.

Twenty Presidents of the United States were either active or retired attorneys. So have been 308 out of the 355 men who have served in Presidents' cabinets.

The vocation enjoys similar representation in State governments. Nineteen hundred of the 7500 men and women in the various legislatures are lawyers. Arkansas leads with 58.8 of its general court being members of bar associations. New Jersey is second with 50 per cent. And Massachusetts trails with 28.2 per cent.

Of course, admission to the bar does not guarantee riches. Some attorneys make as much as $300,000 a year. Others are glad to accept WPA jobs. But the profession as a whole does not do badly.

Last year a census of 3210 lawyers in New York County, New York, revealed that the average annual income was $2990.

HINGHAM'S STATUE of Abraham Lincoln, unveiled Saturday with appropriate ceremony, serves two useful purposes.

It honors a truly great American, one who sincerely believed that this country's problems are AT HOME, rather than 3000 miles across the Atlantic.

And, because it is located not far from the site on which the Great Emancipator's first American ancestor built his home in the year 1640, it directs the nation's attention to New England's important role in the colonization and building of the great nation we today enjoy.

Nearly half of the families which pushed the United States frontier westward to the Mississippi and eventually to the Pacific were from our six States.

WE ARE HOPEFUL that the Twenty-First National Convention of the American Legion, now in session in Chicago, will accept Mayor Tobin's invitation to meet in Boston next year.

Our hotels, theaters, restaurants, merchants, pleasure resorts and amusement enterprises will unite to give these good friends the very best week in the history of their important organization.

Moreover, we shall flavor the program with our far-famed New England hospitality, and, for good measure, add our climate which, as the Legionnaires know, is the world's best.

Mayor Tobin and Governor Saltonstall are journeying to Chicago personally to invite the delegates. Our best wishes go with them.

Old Red Barn

THE old red barn I used to know . . . in boyhood days, long, long ago! . . . What tapestries my memory weaves . . . of pigeons erooning in the eaves . . . the old mare as she munched her corn . . the bleating of a calf new-born . . . the dim, crespicular haymow . . . the lowing of a mother-cow.

And now, with all our restless toil . . . caught in the city's mad turmoil . . . what would I give for but a day . . . in the old barn, amid the hay!

March of Events -:- By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

ALASKA, which Secretary of State Seward bought for $7,000,000 and which was called in post-Civil War days "Seward's Folly," looms larger and larger in our vision as an American Gibraltar of the North Pacific.

Secretary Ickes has lately urged that Alaska be thrown open to colonization by Americans on a vast scale.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famous Arctic explorer, indorses this project in these words:

"It is very important that we hasten the development of Alaska. In case of attack on this country it would be of vital importance as a base for counter attack."

Alaska is our unexplored "last frontier." It is a land as varied in climate as the United States, a land where almost everything can be raised. It is a natural game preserve.

This vast empire of 600,000 square miles, about one-fifth the size of the whole United States and twice the area of Texas, has only about 60,000 persons—many of them Eskimos—living on its land.

Alaska is America No. 2. Let's develop it.

COLONISTS EMBARK FOR "LAST FRONTIER"

"Alaska Is America No. 2. Let's Develop It"

AT 31 MINUTES PAST 5 in the afternoon of Dec. 5, 1933, a man was seated on a bed in a suite on the 19th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria. He had a Scotch highball raised to his lips. Newsreel cameras were set to grind.

Allen Smith, a newspaperman, sat on another bed with a 'phone receiver glued to his ear. A private wire led into a hall in Salt Lake City. As the 21st vote was cast for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in the hall, Smith said "Go!" The man swallowed the highball, thus being the first person to take a legal drink in 13 years.

That person was myself. Over me towered the form of Mr. C. V. R. Thompson, New York representative of the London Daily Express. In five minutes he had his overseas office talking to me, and the next day on the first page I appeared talking to the managing editor of the "Express," each of us saluting one another with a Scotch in our hands — drinks across the sea, or a "long-distance highball," as Mr. Thompson calls it.

Now Mr. Thompson has given us a rattling good book, "I Lost My English Accent" (Putnam), in which he tells us how he gradually has become Americanized and how stale London looked when he went back there as compared to "clangorous vibrating New York."

Mr. Thompson whacks us, too —just where we ought to be whacked. He has wit (American wit!) and altogether he has written one of the best London-eye views of America I've ever read.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

DELAVAN, ILL., En Route—We reached Carbondale, Ill., at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon and I did not expect much time to see the countryside. However, the National Youth Administrator told me there was a small resident project he would like to show me, so I sallied forth with two very kind and enthusiastic young men as guides.

The fact that Illinois has risen to fifth place among oil-producing states has made a considerable change in the outlook of the people, but it does not seem to have changed greatly the fact that the farming population and mining population in this section are at a very low ebb.

ONE of the counties near Carbondale has the greatest number of people on relief in any one county in the United States.

Most of the young men in the Youth Administration project are boys who never had an opportunity for acquiring any work skill or getting into any job which was more than a temporary day-laborer type of occupation. They are teaching some subsistence farming on this project which, from observation from the train window, I should say is very necessary.

How to grow a garden, how to get as much of one's living as possible out of a small acreage, would be very valuable to miners whose work is seasonal. In any case, even when all the mines are open these boys are also given training in auto mechanics, electrical wiring, woodworking and iron work.

They have the advantage of being near a State Teachers' college which is co-operating in every way. This college also has a large number of NYA students and has found them a valuable addition.

The town itself has many monuments to WPA work a paved and widened main street, a fine armory and several other lasting improvements. The Business Men's club seems to co-operate in all this work and has donated the land on which the new buildings are situated.

I drove through the college grounds and out to the Crab Orchard Lake project. This is a PWA project and has employed a good many persons. Flood control is evidently much needed and the possibility of creating power through a series of these projects might mean a good deal to the development of the area.

There are, of course, some natural objections. People will lose their land when the lake is filled up and they do not like the countryside inundated.

It would be impossible for me to pass any judgment on their complaints but I feel sure that careful consideration was given to them before the work was undertaken.

TO OUR GREAT joy Mrs. Helm drove over from Grayville, Ill., and joined us in Carbondale for a few hours. As we had received several envelopes of mail from Washington, we immediately put her to work folding and stamping letters, so she felt as though she had settled down to work a few weeks too early.

MANNS ELUDE NAZI PURSUIT PLANE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 Thomas Mann, his wife and his daughter, Erika, were in Sweden when war was declared. They couldn't come home on a Swedish boat, because German cruisers might have intercepted it for inspection—particularly since they knew where the Manns were. The Nazis have a price on Mann's head—for his is the voice recorded for broadcasts heard in the speeches over the underground radio in Berlin . . . The Manns, therefore, booked passage in a Swedish plane, which cancelled its scheduled stop in Hamburg. While the plane was over the sea, five German pursuit planes appeared. Their co-pilots had binoculars trained on the Swedish plane, peering at the passengers . . . The Manns dropped to the plane's floor, out of slight, until they arrived in London—where they embarked safely for home

Byrd read the play to her, and Mrs. Rawlings indicated deep interest as well as a hope to invest in the production . . . One week later Byrd heard from Mrs. Rawlings, who expressed her faith in his play by inclosing a check covering her investment . . . It was the check for $1000 which had been presented to Mrs. Rawlings by the Pulitzer Prize committee.

PET DEPT.—Clark Gable went to Detroit to see the Louis-Pastor fight . . . During the afternoon he drove by a pet-shop, and became interested in a parrot he saw. He went inside, purchased it and had the parrot wrapped for shipment, by plane, to Hollywood . . . Gable took the package to the airport and tried to arrange the shipment . . . "We're sorry, but we can't help you," the screen star was told, "but a law was passed 2 weeks ago, prohibiting the mailing of live birds. We can't help you" . . . "Can't help me, eh?" Gable repeated. "Okay, then—keep the parrot" . . . He turned to go, and then added: "By the way, the parrot speaks only one word—'Help'."

EARLE ROBINSON, who wrote the "Abe Lincoln" song in "Hellzapoppin," has completed a travesty on "F. D. R. Jones." It's called "Herbert C. Hoover Smith."

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: In a career which has been quiet yet brilliant, a young Japanese named Taki has succeeded in building what amounts to a one-man monopoly in the Boston nightclubs . . . Taki has installed most of the public address systems in the cafes and supper-clubs where entertainment is featured . . . He has supervised the operation of the microphones, and has been so conscientious and successful in his work that chaps like Alex Finn, Barney Welanskey, Lou Walters, Tom Maren, and Paul Sutton have come to depend upon him as if he were a part of their organizations . . . They call him, affectionately, Taki Microphone . . .

Well, poor Taki suffered his first major defeat when the Mayfair reopened Saturday . . . The place was jammed . . . Customers were standing ten-deep outside the ropes, and the overflow from the cocktail lounge made the lobby impassable . . . The Mayfair had been completely done over . . . A great show, with Joe E. Lewis featured, was ready for the first-nighters . . . The orchestra sounded the fanfare . . . Comedian Lewis took over the microphone . . . All was ready . . . And for the first time anyone remembers, a Taki microphone went dead . . . They say young Taki took it so to heart that friends were explaining that loss of "face" doesn't mean as much in America as in the land of the Rising Sun . . . Anyway, Taki fixed the gadget in less than ten minutes—by digging up a new set.

THE SPORTS WRITERS certainly are divided in calling their shots on Frankie Frisch's destination as a National League manager . . . One of the boys offers to buy his devoted readers a drink a-piece if Frank fails to turn up next year in New York . . . Another says with positiveness that Frank is slated for Pittsburgh, and two of the brethren feel sure that Frisch is Chicago bound . . . Be that as it happens, a teammate of Frank's on the McGraw Giants—a fair sort of country ball player himself—is standing on the sidelines a few miles from Boston pondering a future that isn't as bright as that of Mr. Frisch . . . He is Francis Hogan of Somerville . . . Large Francis is getting offers, too . . . But not from the big leagues . . . It occured to us today that The Hogan was catcher for a pitching staff that included Hubbell, Schumacher and Fitzsimmons, when they were all at their peak . . . And when Hogan caught he caught . . . McGraw wasn't signaling pitches to Francis from the bench . . . If the Red Sox need pitchers and catchers, and have the farm-clubs in which to develop them, why wouldn't appointment of Somerville Frank to the management of say, Little Rock or Louisville be a sagacious move? . . . It would certainly be popular with the fans . . . And Frank was one of the smartest receivers in baseball.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Bing Crosby must now be rated as a handy judge of horseflesh . . . On July 22 he told this writer that his partner's father, C. S. Howard (the pappy of Lin Howard), had a better race horse than his famous Kayak II in his barn . . . "Yes," said Bing, "and there's just a chance he may be as good as Seabiscuit" . . . Bing was talking of Sorteado, which broke the world's 14-furlong record.

ILONA MASSEY NEW FILM SENSATION

By Louella O. Parsons

Ilona Massey

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 The most interesting offer over the week-end was the one made by Louis B. Mayer to his son-in-law, David O. Selznick. He'd like to buy "Waterloo Bridge" which David recently acquired for Vivien Leigh and Richard Carlson. I won't be surprised if David listens to reason and sells his property for the price offered is a good one

Mayer and his associates seek the wartime story for Ilona Massey and here is something that makes this fantastic business of ours so intriguing. Ilona has been here for three years without making much of a dent. Then she was put into "Balalaika" with Nelson Eddy and the whole studio suddenly became Massey conscious and started hunting for stories for her. Ilona's romantic interest is Sam Katz, M-G-M executive, and we will be greatly surprised if they do not marry when his divorce from Sari Maritza is final

Even glossy box office returns on "Honeymoon in Bali" can't change their minds about letting the little girl continue with her career . . . Harold Shuster, just back from London, says both the Pinewood and Denham studios have been taken over by the government for the making of propaganda films.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Virginia Peine wore a gold bracelet put on her arm by George Raft when she bid him farewell and left to make her home in New York; Glenda Farrell returns next week and her intimates say she and Tom Lewis will soon make an announcement; the "His Girl Friday" cast, Cary Grant, Rosalind Russell and Ralph Bellamy, called on Harry Cohn and agreed to postpone production without pay until Tuesday on account of the heat.

DAILY STORY

Love's Test

I KNEW I shouldn't have been going around with Harold. I was a married woman, living in a small, conservative town where everyone gossiped about everyone else and put the worst interpretation on every word and action.

Mark was a salesman for school textbooks and had a wide territory to cover, which kept him out of town a great deal of the time and gave me plenty of opportunity to indulge in self-pity.

One evening Harold and I went to a night club for an evening's dancing, and it was here that we had a violent quarrel. He wanted me to divorce Mark and marry him, and when I hesitated he became very angry, telling me I had not treated either my husband or him fairly. I had to admit Harold was right in this, and the quarrel made me realize that I still loved Mark and that I had been very foolish to jeopardize my marriage.

NEXT MORNING the town buzzed with excitement. The local bank had been robbed. Within a few hours Harold had been arrested for the crime. I was stunned by this sudden development. What should I do? Harold had refused to give any alibi, and everyone took this as proof that he had been the robber, I, alone, knew better. Harold had been with me at the time of the robbery.

This put it squarely up to me; what should I do?

For two days I wavered, but I knew in my heart that my conscience would never rest until I had told the truth. Finally I went to the county attorney and told him my story. An hour later I left his office with the assurance that the evidence I had given would free Harold.

I went home and began to pack, not having the courage to face Mark.

AT A SLIGHT NOISE in the doorway I looked up, to see Mark standing there. I knew by his face that he had heard the whole story.

"I've heard all about it," he said finally, in a voice softer than I would have expected.

"I'm truly sorry, Mark," I said.

"Do you love the man?" Mark asked.

I could only shake my head. I wanted to cry, "Mark, I love you; I've never stopped loving you, really," but the words would not come. But Mark must have seen it in my face, for he suddenly held out his arms and I was in them, crying on his shoulder.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

HERE'S AN intelligent youngster who's asking a question which may have puzzled you, too.

She's a private secretary in Big Industry—serious, thoughtful, knows her way around. Her position requires her to be present frequently at conferences between capital and labor, to prepare reports and talk confidentially with representatives from both sides. She has found these representatives to be equally sincere, anxious to effect a practical compromise. But she's increasingly impressed by one fact—

THERE ARE NO WOMEN IN THESE CONFERENCES. AND BOTH SIDES AGREE THAT WOMEN ARE INCOMPETENT TO MEET THESE ISSUES . . . ARE TOO "IGNORANT OF ECONOMICS TO BE USEFUL." BUT WHY—?

"HOW CAN anyone accuse women of ignorance of economics," she cries. "It is well known that women control 80 per cent of America's wealth. Men are the earners; women are the spenders of America's money.

"Men see money in the abstract. Women see it as a personal issue. They know its real value in human life. They are the REALISTS . . . men are the THEORISTS. Men discuss hours, wages, overtime, etc. Women translate these problems into terms of health and happiness, birth and death, progress or demoralization.

"It seems to be both stupid and shortsighted to exclude women from industrial conferences. I am not a feminist, in the shrill sense of the word. But it seems to me that the plain facts prove that women have a better working knowledge of applied economics than men, and that their advice would prove invaluable."

SOUNDS CONVINCING, doesn't it? But I wonder if you'll agree. You may say that women "are too excitable to sit in on conferences . . . they get mad too easily . . . they cry and carry on . . . they take everything too personally."

"And I've brought that same charge myself against my sex. I too felt that we women lack the control necessary for these vitally important debates . . . that we're not trained, yet, to take "the long view" as men do . . .

But isn't that "long view" the very thing which is wrong with our 100 per cent male conferences?

If men could see closer, wouldn't they act wiser?

Doesn't woman's NEAR view make for the CLEAR view? What's YOUR vote?

Katharine Cornell Will Bring Comedy Hit to Wilbur

FRANCIS LEDERER and Margalo Gillmore play important supporting roles in Katharine Cornell's starring production, "No Time for Comedy," opening at the Wilbur next Monday.

Katharine Cornell Plays Comedy for First Time

S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy," in which Katharine Cornell is just now ending a 24-week run on Broadway, comes to the Wilbur Theater a week from tonight as the first stop on a tour that will take the celebrated actress-manager to the Pacific coast and back.

Her current vehicle, incidentally, is presented by Miss Cornell in association with the Playwrights' Company, of which Mr. Behrman is a member. The local engagement will be for two weeks.

Jo Mielziner has fashioned two of his silken settings as pleasing and appropriate backgrounds for Miss Cornell and her associates, and Guthrie McClintic, husband of the glamorous star, has staged the Behrman comedy.

In "No Time for Comedy," Miss Cornell has again gathered together one of her usual expert acting organizations. Appearing opposite her—in the leading male role—will be Francis Lederer, who came on from Hollywood for the assignment.

Prominent in the supporting cast will be Margalo Gillmore, John Williams, Tom Helmore, Gee Gee James and Peter Robinson. The play marks Miss Cornell's first appearance of her distinguished career in a light comedy role, and with results, it is said, that will be eminently satisfying to her vast and loyal following.

Charmers Crowd Gayety's Stage

"The Merry Rounders" is the title of the Gayety's new stage show, which spotlights Ginger Johnstone, billed as "The Girl You Can't Forget."

Other chargers in the current stage revue are Margie White, Ruth Coburn, Helen Hughes and Anita Lamour. Harriet Carr, "The Little Girl With the Big Voice," is also featured.

Ginger Johnstone

For laughs, the Gayety management gives you Bobby Faye, Eddie Dale, Wally Stanford, Eddie Yubel, George Rose and Jack Shaw.

Jimmie Allerin's dancing Gayettes are increased in number as well as pulchritude.

Columbia's Star

Platinum-topped Ginger Waldron joins Carrie Finnell, colorfully described in publicity releases as "the finnessing Finn," in this week's Columbia burlesque antics.

Ginger Waldron

Carrie continues her remote control specialty by popular demand.

Another feature on the stage bill is "Baby Faced" Evelyn Taylor, a titian-tressed lovely who brings with her a routine of "hot tamale terpischorean novelties."

Vice Ring Expose On Globe Screen

"Gambling With Souls," which tops the Globe's double bill, is a startling revelation of how innocent girls are victimized by the underworld.

Blondely beautiful Mary Chapin is starred as the desperate young wife who is driven finally to shoot her betrayer, having been drawn into the vice ring through her love for finery.

Supporting players are Bryant Washburn, Florence Dudley, Vera Steadman, Gaston Glass, Ed Keane, Gay Sheridan, Robert Fraser and Janet Eastman.

The second feature, "Nancy Drew, Trouble Shooter," has the teen-age Bonita Granville for star.

Margie Hart Back at Howard

Provocative Margie Hart, who has just completed a two-month engagement at the World's Fair, heads the "Heart Breakers" cast at the Old Howard this week.

Margie Hart

She will introduce a group of sensational new dances.

Another favorite of Hub audiences, blonde Ina Thomas; Joyzelle, a dancing dervish, and Bunny Mitchell, lively soubrette, are well spotted in Miss Hart's stage show.

Comics Manny King and Harry Myers are important adjuncts to the show. Then, too, there are Lew Petel, with a routine of popular songs; the Nathano Brothers, athletic marvels; Lerner and Milles in the skit, "Music As You Like It"; Irving Kare, Ruth Melvyn, Screen and Johnson, colored dance team; Mariam and Dawn Ames, song-and-dance twosome, and the 30 "Heart Breakers."

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25—I'm going to admit I have to stop and think twice when I hear news about the various new "Brendas" in pictures now. But both 20th Century Fox's Brenda Joyce and Warner's Brenda Marshall are going over like a house afire.

Last week Miss Marshall's first picture, "Espionage Agent," opened in New York and the gal rated some good reviews. In fact, her home studio was so impressed with the way she went over that they are putting her immediately into the femme lead opposite Errol Flynn in "Virginia City." Not bad, I'd say, for a girl who was getting $22.50 as a Federal theater actress less than a year ago.

Irene Dunne has been handed a script of "Nights to Remember" (hope they aren't as torrid as those we sweltered through last week) to read and approve. But all joking aside, you may like to hear that this new John Stahl story takes up where "Only Yesterday" left off.

If you remember, the original hit with Margaret Sullavan and John Boles depicted a love story that began in the war and the birth of a baby girl whose identity was not suspected by the father until years later.

'THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER' AT PLYMOUTH TONIGHT

First of Fall's Stage Offerings

TONIGHT

"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"—Sam H. Harris presents this new George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy at the Plymouth, where, after a fortnight's stay, it will go to New York.

Monty Woolley, bewhiskered featured player in the films, "Man About Town" and "Midnight," and one-time dramatic director at Yale, is to play this, the leading role.

Others in the cast are Carol Goodner, Edith Atwater, Theodore Newton, Dudley Clements, Virginia Hammond, Mary Wickes, Le Roy Operti and George Probert. Mr. Kaufman is directing.

TOMORROW NIGHT

"THE EMPEROR JONES"—The New England Repertory will open its second season at Peabody Playhouse with a revival of the Eugene O'Neill's drama, with Frank Silvera, gifted Negro actor and native of Jamaica, playing Brutus Jones.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 2

"NO TIME FOR COMEDY" — The Playwrights' Company and Katharine Cornell present Miss Cornell in S. N. Behrman's newest play, "No Time for Comedy," which will terminate a long and successful engagement to open a two-week engagement at the Wilbur.

One of Mr. Behrman's most brilliant comedies, "No Time for Comedy" presents the professional and domestic problems of a successful writer of comedies and his charming actress wife. Until another woman suggested that in these times of world crisis he should concern himself with more serious writing problems, he was an untroubled and prosperous writer of light comedies. His wife's insistence that he continue in the medium he knows best brings dissension briefly in their happy home.

"TOO MANY GIRLS" — A new musical comedy by Rodgers and Hart will be given first performance in Boston under the sponsorship of George Abbott at the Shubert.

The mythical cow college of Pottwottamie is the background for "Too Many Girls," which has a cast peopled by stalwart footballers and cute co-eds among them Marcy Westcott—late of "The Boys from Syracuse"; Richard Kollmar, from "Knickerbocker Holiday"; Hal LeRoy, last seen here in "Thumbs Up"; Mary Jane Walsh of "I'd Rather Be Right"; Eddie Bracken of "Brother Rat" and "What a Life," and Hans, Robert, Clyde Fillmore, Ivy Scott, James MacColl, Byron Shores and Diosa Costello and Desi Arnaz, Latin American dancers.

CAROL GOODNER is a pretty dinner guest in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" to be served tonight at the Plymouth by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart.

'What a Life' Here Next Week

"What a Life," Paramount's film version of the comedy of high school life local playgoers enjoyed so thoroughly, will have its New England premiere a week from Thursday on the Paramount and Fenway screens.

Jackie Cooper is playing the troubled young Henry Aldrich. Others in the cast are Betty Field, John Howard, Janice Logan and Lionel Stander.

For two solid seasons, stage and radio audiences have been living their youth again with Henry and his high school contemporaries.

Simone Simon Boston Bound

Simone Simon, who was never coming back to these United States, will be appearing behind Hub footlights early in November in "The Gibson Girls," new Shubert musical.

Stephen Powys is preparing the libretto and the music will be by Jimmy Mercer and Hoagy Carmichael. Edward Clarke Lilley will be in charge of the staging.

At the moment, Mlle. Simon is supposed to be aboard the New York-bound Vulcania.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

THE CHILDREN have gone back to pencils and books . . . and so have society matrons . . . A good part of each morning is spent jotting notes in engagement books and attending informal committee meetings, for the blank pages in Dame Boston's fall society calendar are being rapidly filled with dates of coming affairs . . .

Two dates which are heavily underlined on most every calendar are October 9 and 23, the opening nights of the first two plays in the Theater Guild's annual series . . . Julie Haydon and Eddie Dowling will be starred in the first play, "The Time of Your Life," a new comedy by William Saroyan, and the second play will be "Outward Bound," starring Laurette Taylor . . .

First nighters who have already signed up for the series include such prominent theatergoers as Mr. and Mrs. John W. Adie, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Pratt, Mrs. Langdon Frothingham, Mrs. John O'Day, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stuart Forbes Jr., Mrs. Joseph Lee, Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey W. Lewis, Jr., Mrs. Channing Frothingham, Mrs. Walworth Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hammond . . .

Subscribers also include Mrs. George H. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard, Mrs. George C. Beals, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ames, Mrs. George Brewster, Mrs. Ames Stephens, Mrs. George H. Davenport and Mrs. P. Somers Smyth . . .

ANOTHER OCCASION as traditional in Boston as baked beans and codfish, is the opening of the Friday afternoon Symphony concerts . . . The first concert this year comes on October 13 . . . when many music lovers will occupy the same seats which they have had for the 15 years of Dr. Koussevitsky's conductorship . . .

* * *

MRS. CHARLES SUMNER BIRD, founder of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Hon. Edith Nourse Rogers, head the list of patronesses for a series of morning lectures on public questions to be given at the clubhouse by Professor William Starr Myers of Princeton . . .

Mrs. George Winslow Perkins, Mrs. John F. Tweedy, Mrs. Roger W. Cutler, Mrs. George R. Fearing and Mrs. Alexander Whiteside are the committee in charge of the series which will open Oct. 28 with a lecture entitled "Since Munich" . . .

Wedding Party Honored

LUCY DENIO of South Lincoln had a wedding cake with all the fixin's, silver candlesticks, flowers, etc., even before her wedding . . . Saturday she became the bride of Robert Bygrave, and the preceding evening she was honored at a dinner dance at Ten Acres in Wayland, where she got a bit of practice cutting the cake . . . She looked very attractive in a hyacinth blue chiffon gown with long sleeves and corsage of pink roses and bouvardia . . .

Sharing the excitement with Lucy and her husband-to-be were her sisters, Jean and Juiie Denio, Susanne Sanders, Mary Tolman, Hope Lord, Barbara Dudley, Julian Tolman, Thomas Edmunds, John Bygrave, Stephen Smith, Emery Whipple, John Denio, Franklin Johnson and David Smith . . .

Kathleen Keville and her fiance, Douglas Cairns, were in a party with Bill Keville and Marie O'Connell . . .

MARY ELIOT and Grafton Fay have been a familiar twosome at all of society's doings during the past spring and summer so the announcement of their engagement comes as little surprise to their friends . . . The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eliot of Chestnut Hill and granddaughter of Amory Eliot of Manchester . . . She made her debut two years ago and is a sister of Nancy Eliot, one of this season's debutantes . . .

Mr. Fay is the son of Mrs. Edward Henry Fay of Milton and is a brother of Edward and Abbott Fay and Mrs. Francis Sargent of Cambridge . . .

POST DEB JOANNA HOYT, shown pasting up a theatrical poster, may soon join the ranks of society girls with jobs on Broadway. All summer she did publicity work with the Bass Rocks Players and now she is trying to win her parents' consent to accept a job she has been offered with a show on Broadway. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Hoyt of Beverly Farms.

Columbus Day Bridal Planned

Cecelia V. Donahue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donahue of East Boston, has set Thursday, October 12, as the date of her marriage to City Councilor Francis W. Irwin.

The ceremony will be solemnized in the Star of the Sea Church, East Boston.

Mary Donahue is to be her sister's honor attendant, and Catharine and Cora Murphy will be bridesmaids. Gerald J. McCarthy is to be Mr. Irwin's best man.

Carey Associates To Hold Party

First annual card party and dance of the William A. Carey Associates will be held Friday evening at the Teachers' College, Huntington and Longwood aves.

The committee includes Mrs. Mary C. Walsh, who will direct the card playing, with Helen Cunningham and Harold Fitzgerald in charge of the dance.

Dr. Eddy's Question Box

Tested and Approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau

ARE FACE POWDERS TESTED? | IS BUCKWHEAT CONSTIPATING?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Questions concerning foods, nutrition, and health will be answered only if a stamped, addressed envelope accompanies your request. No exceptions can be made to this rule. Prescriptional advice can not be given, nor can food or drug samples be analyzed. Address Dr. Walter H. Eddy, 57th street at 8th avenue, New York City.

We Test for Injurious Ingredients

Does "X" face powder contain lead? Mrs. G. S.

Every face powder or cosmetic preparation approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau has been tested to make sure of absence of lead. We take particular pains in this matter because it is definitely known, first, that lead can be absorbed by the skin; second, that lead is a cumulative poison, so that, although there would not be enough absorbed from one application, continual use of the product sooner or later would produce a toxic effect.

Not only do we therefore take particular pains in examining samples to make sure of the absence of lead, but we also make sure that the manufacturer maintains a satisfactory testing laboratory to insure absence of the element in his raw material.

Best to Consult a Competent Physician

For the last year or so my skin has become extremely dry — so dry over my entire body as to appear scaly. I would like to know whether this is due to something lacking in my diet or whether it could be a skin disease. Mrs. J. Q. O.

If you skin has become so dry as to appear scaly, some physical condition is evidently responsible. It might be diet, and it might be a number of other things. We cannot diagnose such a condition as you describe or prescribe treatment. This is one of those cases which seems to be a matter of consultation with a competent physician.

Allergic and Nonallergic Cosmetics

I would appreciate a list of nonallergic cosmetics. Mrs. J. L. W.

A given cosmetic may be allergic to some people and totally nonallergic to hundreds of others. Since a good many people are allergic to cereal starch and to orris root, most cosmetic manufacturers of face powder tend to omet these articles at the present time. But here, again, there are hundreds of people on whom these substances have no effect. We can not, therefore, really separate cosmetics into allergic and nonallergic groups.

Buckwheat Cakes for Children

"Is buckwheat constipating? The children eat a much better breakfast when I serve buckwheat cakes, and I would like to have them more often if I were sure they were good for them." MRS. J. S.

Buckwheat is a good cereal. The main danger of buckwheat cakes for breakfast is that the children are apt to overload them with syrup or sugar and, hence, so eat more of these substances than they need. Properly cooked and masticated, buckwheat cakes are a satisfactory cereal food.

Quick Fall Meals

By MARTHA LEE

An ideal introduction to a peppy meal for a cool fall day is a big plate of vegetable beef soup. Just open the cans of soup, heat and serve.

For the main course bring on a fat casseroleful of delicate cooked macaroni topped with a pinwheel of tender asparagus tips. An unusual combination, to be sure, but a most delicious dish when you use the ready-to-serve cooked macaroni that comes done up in tins. This savory macaroni is simmered in a rich cream sauce flavored with a nippy blend of cheeses.

MACARONI AND ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE

1 medium (17 oz.) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese
1 small can asparagus tips
¾ cup fresh bread crumbs, buttered

Arrange a thin layer of macaroni in a shallow buttered casserole. Top with a layer of asparagus, having tips radiate from center. Repeat each layer, having asparagus on top. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 20 minutes or until macaroni is heated through. Serves 4.

BOWL OF SALAD GREENS

With the macaroni casserole, you'll want a big bowlful of crisp salad greens drenched in a spicy dressing. Line your bowl with succulent leaves of romaine or other salad greens, then shred or cube a solid head of iceberg lettuce into the bowl and pour this cool and colorful chiffonade dressing over the greens.

CHIFFONADE DRESSING

½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
¼ tsp. paprika
¼ cup cider vinegar
½ cup olive oil
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tsp. chopped onion
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
¼ cup chopped cooked beets

Mix the salt, sugar, and paprika together. Add the vinegar and olive oil and beat thoroughly. Add the chopped parsley, onion, egg and beets, mixing well. Serve over salad greens.

For dessert turn out a batch of chocolate crunch made by tossing crisp golden rice flakes in a sauce of melted dipping chocolate.

CHOCOLATE CRUNCH SUNDAE

¼ lb. sweet dipping chocolate
1½ cups rice flakes

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Stir in the rice flakes gently until they are well coated with chocolate. Spread rice flakes in a thin layer on waxed paper and cool. Break up finely with fingers and sprinkle over vanilla or frozen custard ice cream. Serves 10.

Weave Useful Articles

This soft "homespun" scarf you can weave easily of crochet cotton—and it looks especially lovely in beige or powder blue.

Your materials are a simple adjustable loom costing about 25 cents, a No. 14 tapestry needle and crochet cotton about 1-16-inch thick. Get 135 yards for a scarf 10½ by 15 inches.

First step is to set up the warp. Tie cotton to loom at upper left corner—as in Diagram 1. Then carry thread back and forth across loom — winding it around the wooden teeth—until you have 36 warp threads. Repeat, so you have 2 through each groove.

Now attach thread 2½ inches above lower right corner of loom and weave. To get the pretty diagonal pattern of the deep borders, you weave over 2 warp threads, under 1, but change the order each row as in Diagram 2.

For the center use a simple basket weave. When you finish, slip scarf off loom, cut loops, tie ends to make a pretty fringe.

Among other delightful articles you can weave on your adjustable loom is a cozy afghan.

Send 15 cents in coin for our booklet, Beautiful and Useful Articles You Can Easily Weave, to Boston Evening American Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y.

You Can Be Beautiful

Perfume for Elegance

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU'RE a Constant Reader of this column . . . and we hope you are . . . you may remember the furore we reported a while back, caused when someone learned the name of the then Wallis Simpson's perfume . . . the very one which the Duke bought and gave her. It is certainly one of the intriguing fragrances in history.

And it made another splash right in this country when a jury of social-elect young fashionables chose it out of a tremendous number of other perfumes as the most exciting of the lot. No wonder then, that we're a-dither to learn that it has arrived in eau de cologne form.

A good lot of it was imported, just in time to get in under the line of war-barred luxuries. At the moment your means of introduction to it may be the short-time offer in one Boston shop . . . of a half-ounce bottle of eau de cologne to be given without charge with each dram you buy of the perfume.

We can't think of a better time to have this happen. It's a special-moment sort of fragrance which really shouldn't be wasted on summer air . . . unless it's some particularly portentous, star-studded night, when you must have it . . . but it ought to be used now when luxurious fabrics and furs abound . . . elegances that will be heightened by the spicy-opulent perfume.

If you'd like to learn about this short-time offer of an exclusive eau de cologne to match a French perfume (to be given with a purchase of only a dram!) phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The PRIVATE LIFE of Dr. Hilary

by HENRY and SYLVIA LIEFERANT
AUTHORS OF "DOCTORS' WIVES"

DR. HILARY was miserable. He told himself he needed time, yet time dug the trenches deeper, washed away the subsoil to reveal greater pits and more jagged rocks.

It was only three days since his realization, but all of his life seemed crammed into them.

He went about febrilely, scarcely aware of his actions, analyzing, re-analyzing, combing through the events of weeks as if his love were a case history.

His effort was all to no purpose. Every self-examination terminated with the same diagnosis: that he was in love with Phoebe; and after each night of emotional turmoil, he found surcease for a moment in Phoebe's presence.

He tried to command his usual gaiety in her room, his assumption of power and strength. He had no idea whether he was succeeding.

There were times when he thought she must read his love in his eyes, in the set of his mouth, in his very avoidance of her direct glance.

Again he wondered if his travail were useless. Perhaps Phoebe cared nothing about him; yet he could not ask her until his course was clear in his own mind.

Suppose she said, "Yes—I love you, Martin. I'll follow you anywhere," was he ready to disrupt his home, to uproot Nora and Peter, to build again that indefinable delight which men called a home, perhaps to have children with Phoebe?

A MAN IN LOVE

He was married to Nora. He had a son, a rare child, already irritated by the discord. Martin knew that the boy's torn hand and scarred fingertips would not heal quickly, could not—in the absence of that harmony which Peter required more than food.

He would rather have had his own hands ripped than for Peter to miss a week or two of music, as now he would. What could he do about Peter? And Nora?

"Yes, Skean, I'll see Mr. Hobbs."

"No, Skean, I don't have to see Mrs. Parsons again."

"What about those slides, Miss Gannon?"

"All right, Miss Croyden, I'll dictate this afternoon."

"Yes, Skean. No, Skean. Yes, Gannon. No, Croyden. Sorry, Mrs. Emory, your grandson cannot be moved anywhere. He needs hospital care. Yes, Dr. Hilary speaking—"

Always when Martin seemed at the point of drawing a conclusion, the routine of his office intruded. His desire was to hide from the world, to take a trip somewhere and give himself up completely to the search for a solution.

Obviously this was impossible, yet he resented the demands of his office at this particular time.

He had served his practice devotedly and tirelessly all these years.

Now when he needed the sanctuary of solitude, he found himself a slave to routine.

As a surgeon, he seldom received the confidence of men, but occasionally through the years some had poured out their tales of broken marriages. Every case he could think of depended upon recriminations between husband and wife, bitterness, accusations, even hatred.

Martin saw how convenient bitterness was under such circumstances, how hatred became just a peg upon which to hang negotiations and justifications.

EMPTY RITUAL

He did not love Nora less, he kept assuring himself, but he also loved Phoebe. He shrank from crushing Nora's life under his heel, but he could not renounce Phoebe.

He tried to imagine himself continuing with Nora, going through an empty ritual of attitudes while yearning for that which Phoebe had to give him; and he knew that the essential dishonesty of such an attempt would finally bring into their lives an ugliness which he now hoped to avoid.

Then he tried to visualize Nora—alone, living vicariously through Peter. And the boy himself always searching in his mind and soul for his father, never comprehending why his father was lost to him.

He smoked too much, drank too many cocktails at night. Amazing how a few days could wreck a man; and it was risky playing with other people's lives in his present state. He could not manage his own. A mind divided means an uncertain hand for a surgeon.

He dared not go on, endangering his patients, exposing himself to that dreaded eventuality—the surgeon jitters.

A surgeon cannot afford to lose his nerve.

Martin realized that the first step to be taken was to discharge Phoebe from gossip, from all those boarding in the hospital any longer.

There must have been enough talk, and now he had an added responsibility. He must protect Phoebe from gossip, from all those hurtful thrusts which would be aimed at "the other woman."

How stupid to call Phoebe the other woman! She had done nothing to bring this about.

The matter of keeping his relationship with Phoebe at its present level would be difficult, since surely she must know that he did not have to see her professionally.

He must arrange, somehow, for circumstances of meeting, perhaps even of calling upon her. It seemed to him that with Phoebe removed from the prying eyes of office and hospital, the next step would be simpler.

He must act at once, though—have her out in the morning.

The necessity of telling Phoebe that she was to be discharged was to Martin a distasteful duty.

Phoebe had no loving family waiting for her, no homespot which beckoned. Martin felt that sending her back to her drudgery, to those forces which had contributed to her illness, was like thrusting her out of a sheltered home into a cruel and heartless world.

He had to get her away first—there was no help for that—and therefore the news must be broken to her swiftly, even perhaps brusquely. She would understand later, when she understood his love.

Martin had no intention of letting Skean and the others see him go upstairs to Phoebe's room, yet he wanted to tell her today and not appear to be rushing her out in the morning.

He must see her in the evening when the office staff had gone.

He had Skean call Nora to say he would not be home to dinner, nor did he know just when he would be home, and felt vaguely relieved when the nurse reported that Mrs. Hilary had not yet come in, and Helga the cook had taken the message.

He asked Miss Croyden to leave for him the files of an old case (to explain his lingering at the office), and with a pretense at studying them, he settled down to await the departure of his staff.

It was borne in upon him gradually that the insect-like sounds of activity in X-ray room and laboratory had ceased.

He lifted himself heavily from his chair, every muscle of his body aching, every aspect of his mind revolting against the task ahead of him, and after a casual inspection of the office to make certain that his staff had really left, Martin rode upstairs to the hospital.

For half a minute he still the turmoil—he assured himself, he hesitated outside Phoebe's door. Then abruptly he knocked.

Her voice rang out clearly, expectantly: "Come in" as if she had been awaiting that knock.

(What will Martin do? Will he abandon his wife and child? Don't miss tomorrow's absorbing chapter.)

Even Brief War Changes Market

One far reaching, fundamental change already wrought by the war bids fair to last even though conflict in Europe should, for some happy reason now unforeseen, flicker out over night . . .

SUDDEN MARKET . . . Flip-flops coinciding with the start of war—made large headlines . . . Stocks and commodities were scanned avidly for profit opportunities . . . Few had time for the bond market . . . Yet senior securities were observing an important event in their career . . . Eventide for microscopic yields had come . . . The sun had truly set on the day of long term high-grade bond yields ranging from 3 per cent down fractions of 1 per cent . . . Many a top flight issue that sold to put plus a few shorte sessions before war slipped lower . . . The plight was by no means unobserved by it was hardly attended by the excitement in evidence elsewhere . . .

OPINIONS . . . As to the importance, or permanence, of this downtrend in high grade bonds are divided . . . There are those who argue it is a passing phase and a return to top levels will follow . . . We do not agree with that any more than we agreed to the permanence of high prices and low yields early last summer . . . At that time protective steps were recommended and a method of defense suggested . . . Once such a turn takes place it is hard, if not impossible, to halt it . . . All new or proposed new issues become competitors of old issues . . . And that means in order to sell them the issuer must meet going interest rates . . . In other words higher coupon rates or greater offering discounts from par . . . This competitive situation sharpens with business improvement and the need for money . . .

ACCEPTANCE . . . Of this situation in high grade bonds next uncovers the question of how steep the fall ahead . . . Here too there is great disagreement . . . For our part we think it will be rather mild over the near and reasonably near future . . . There is a lot of money around . . . And all of it is not going into stocks . . . Or commodities . . . There is no real inflation in definite prospect . . . It is one of those things that can happen quickly when potential ingredients are considered; but this has been true for years . . . And finally the competition of new bond issues is not even in a fair way to becoming serious as yet . . . Sharp falls in high grades can be reasonably expected to await further development of related affairs . . .

THE FAVORABLE . . . Outlook for U. S. shipping has been touched on several times here . . . Many of the several reasons for expecting expansion have been given . . . All lead up to the simple conclusion there just are not enough U. S. ships to carry the freight . . . The accompanying chart shows how sadly deficient the U. S. is . . . And has been war or no war . . . The vertical columns show total world tonnage . . . The U. S. figure is black . . . While the English figure includes the U. S. section and the diagonally ruled part as well . . . In 1933 for instance total English tonnage was 20,700,000 while U. S. tonnage was only 11,400,000 . . .

ARCHIVE . . . Needle and the country have been far in excess of available bottoms all through the 1930's . . . Now with war diverting British shipping to the business of the Empire there is an even greater demand for ships . . . Add to this normal trade situation the export trade accruing to American industry through stoppage of foreign manufacturing and the need becomes extremely acute . . . It is a case of the U. S. having to fill a double vacuum: . . . One in available non-combatant ships . . . And the other in necessary articles of manufacture heretofore supplied by Germany, England and France . . . The boom visioned for shipbuilders is far from a dream . . .

Bixby to Give B. U. Course

The Evening College of Commerce of the Boston University College of Business Administration announced today that William H. Bixby, personnel superintendent of William Filene's Sons Company, is again giving the course on organization and personnel problems in retail stores, wholesale establishments and offices.

The course consists of a comprehensive series of lectures and discussions on present-day personnel activities and the development of effective personnel programs—problems important to the success of any business. During the first 15 weeks the discussion will center around employment offices and personnel procedure. The second half of the course will cover the broader aspects of industrial relations and labor legislation. The whole course will be planned, however, to make a single comprehensive unit in two parts.

Mr. Bixby, who was appointed chairman of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission in May, is a graduate of Harvard University, class of 1912, and his many years of successful experience, both in the retail and educational fields, insures the constructive character of the course.

The first semester of fifteen weeks duration is scheduled to begin Tuesday, October 3, from 7 to 9 p. m. Visitors are welcome at the opening session.

Specialties Lead Stock List Rally

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Steels, rutors, rails and some specialties improved in today's stock market, with gains of fractions to around a point.

After a moderate and mixed start the ticker tape lafed for a while then picked up as traders switched into their selected issues. Toward noon the tendency was a shade higher.

Prominent on the upside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrvsler, Santa Fe, New York Central, Westinghouse Electric, Union Bag & Paper, International Paper, U. S. Rubber and Loft.

Narrow were Goodyear, International Harvester and International Nickel.

Professionals were wary pending further action on the neutrality legislation at Washington and were less sensitive than might be expected to week-end favorable business news. The attitude seemed to be that everyone knew industry was making a comeback, but one couldn't guess what monkey wrench might steal its way into the wheels.

At Amsterdam the Bourse was steady with prices a little lower and London maintained an even balance. Commodities were mixed. Bonds were irregular.

Noon stock exchange prices: Bethlehem Steel, 94, up 1¾; U. S. Steel, 78¾, up ¾; Chrysler, 83⅜, up ⅝; American Smelting & Refining, 58½, up ⅝; Westinghouse Electric, 117¾, up 2; Allied Chemical, 193½, up 1½; Du Pont, 182½, up ½; U. S. Rubber, 43¼, up ¾; Great Northern Ry., 31½, up 1½; U. S. Gypsum, 72, up 1; Douglas Aircraft, 76, off ¾.

AD INCREASE RECOVERY SIGN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25 (AP) The Curtis Publishing Co. has announced that the Oct. 14 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, "long considered by many as a business barometer," will carry a greater volume of advertising than any issue since Sept. 12, 1931.

Walter D. Fuller, president of the company, interpreted the increase as reflecting "normal improvement in conditions" in the United States because all the advertising was placed before the outbreak of the European war.

Bar Gold Steady

BUSINESS DRAFTS 300 U. S. LEADERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (INS)—To keep American business on an even keel despite repercussions of the European war, the United States Chamber of Commerce today had "drafted" 300 of the nation's ablest businessmen to form a supreme national economic council for the next year.

"War or no war, business must go on; productive enterprise must continue," the Chamber declared in a formal statement, which coincided with government and private reports of new gains in domestic industry, labor and bank wealth.

Drawn from every state in the Union, the expert business leaders were assigned to 20 special committees, to handle emergency problems as they may arise.

The Chamber said consequences of the conflict abroad are difficult to assess, and predicted as "a certainty" marked effects upon American production, employment and foreign trade.

Final consideration of the "trouble-shooting" committees will be to solidify commerce and industry for maintenance of national peace and preservation of representative government, the Chamber said.

"This may provide the foundation," it predicted, "upon which a new order will be built in the wake of war. The American business system must be prepared to meet national requirements in time of peace as well as in time of war."

The committeemen will note for the national membership dislocations or improvements in 20 particular fields, ranging in scope from the merchant marine to housing, and from education to federal monetary policy.

Suggesting new demands may be made upon the Roosevelt Administration by the Chamber for more freedom of enterprise as the conflict overseas continues, the Chamber emphasized that in time of war it is "all the more imperative" that restrictions which hamper business be removed. Only recently the Chamber's board of directors urged Congress to keep this country out of war.

As the Chamber moved to consolidate the position of the nation's business, healthy signs of improvement were noted on several fronts.

A post-depression peak in bank deposits, showing more than $54,000,000,000 in the 13,569 banks under the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, was reported by that agency. Savings on June 30 were $5,000,000,000 more than on the same day in 1938, and total assets of the banks were up 9.3 per cent.

YOU CAN BORROW $100 NOW

IF YOU CAN MAKE 12 MONTHLY PAYMENTS OF $9.75 EACH

You need no co-makers or endorsers, no bankable security—

Prompt service • See table for other loans and payments

IF YOU need cash, Household's new plan is a simple, convenient way for you to get it. You borrow without co-makers or endorsers. You repay in 2 to 20 convenient monthly installments as best fits your budget. The faster you repay your loan, the less it costs you. Let's assume that you need $100 and that you can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. The table below shows that 12 installments of $9.75 each will repay your loan in full, including charges. Or suppose you can pay more each month. Six monthly payments of $18.15 repays $100. Or if you wish smaller monthly payments, you can repay as little as $6.41 per month for 20 months.

Simple to borrow

To get a Household Finance loan of $20 to $300 you merely tell us about your needs—and leave an application. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. No one has to sign the loan papers with you (married couples sign together). You get your loan promptly. Usually the money is ready for you the day after you apply.

Choose the payment that fits your budget

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. See how you can make very small payments if you wish. Or you can pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four monthly installments costs only $6.32. And to get your Household loan you need no endorsers. You are spared the nuisance of asking others to act as co-makers.

In your own interest don't get a loan anywhere until you study Household's new plan. Note the convenience of Household's new payment schedules. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

AUSTEN LAKE

Magazine Writer Puts Harvard in Pro Class

JOHN R. TUNIS, THE LITERARY NUDIST who has earned many a penny by authoring sport exposes for the magazines, comes up with another doubtful revelation on college football in a current issue of the American Mercury, a publication which portrays life without any pants.

AUSTEN LAKE

Some of what Tunis says is true—true in the tone of a grammar school history of the Spanish War. Everybody knows that many colleges are not bound by delicate rules of football eligibility, or, in some cases, have no rules at all.

A year or so ago Tunis wrote a twin-sister to this blurb in which he said "football is run by thugs and fringed by gamblers and gangsters." This time he states "It has become an unsavory racket and as such has no justifiable place on a college campus." Tunis must have drawn his facts from Hollywood and written his impressions in a hasheesh haze. For this is the same man who wrote that football games "are thrown," declaring that it is "known to everybody except a few sport-writing ostriches, adolescent alumni and those who stamp the title of Graduate Manager under their signature." He doesn't say it this time but he said it before.

I have been a critical analyist of college and professional football for 20 years, both as player and observer. In neither branch of sport have I ever heard the slightest whisper that any game was "thrown," and I trust I am not one of John's ostriches. I would say that the worst of the colleges, which commercialize football as a means of ogling alumni donations, enlarging enrollment and obtaining free advertising, have never faked a football game.

"$60 to $80 a Month . . ."

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT THE AMERICAN MERCURY, which in the literary field is what the peep-show ladies who jiggle their meaty silhouettes against a linen screen are to the little skin carnivals, is doing just what it accuses the colleges of doing, i. e. selling sensationalism for the benefits of circulation with none too careful regard for the material it uses.

For example, in his classification of the four college groups, (1) lily white, (2) sooty gray, (3) smutty brown and (4) bawdy scarlet, Tunis books Harvard in the second set, which he says are institutions where the "chief business of the college presidents is not to allow the right hand to know what the graduates are doing. In his previous article he listed Harvard as a college which actually paid its athletes "fixed rates—usually from $60 to $80 a month—and doesn't deviate from it."

Therefore, from Tunis, one has the choice of three impressions, (1) Harvard supports its players from its athletic budget, (2) Dick Harlow and affluent alumni are seducing schoolboys, or (3) the H. A. A. is clandestinely keeping the kids.

What rot! Only a few years back Harvard cashiered its football captain for the comparatively innocent act of living on borrowed money from a family friend. I always thought that a fine example of sanctimonious prudery.

So this is some more of the familiar twaddle from the pen of a literary dreamer—a Harvard man at that. For if what Tunis says is true, Harvard, which has some $165,000,000 in assets, could buy the biggest standing army in the country and pulverize the opposition with a matched set of football stallions instead of taking its share of weekly wallopings. Also Tunis tactfully tucks Minnesota in the same bed with Harvard, while Boston College is dropped down with semi-professionals along with Holy Cross and Dartmouth.

Dartmouth Is Frank

BOSTON COLLEGE AND HOLY CROSS AWARD scholarships to indigent athletes who have the required standard of scholarship. And they give scholarship aid to indigent students who have no athletic leanings. I know dozens of the latter by name. In any event they give neither cash nor extra curricular inducement. Their sport incomes scarcely support their athletic programs and the A. A.'s practice annual economies to make the coat of income meet the britches of outgo without exposing too much nakedness in between.

Dartmouth is perfectly frank about its system. Its chain of alumni clubs about the country give scholarships, financed by resident graduates, to boys who best combine physique, intellect and personality—the same measure as the Rhodes Scholarship requires for picking U. S. students to study at Oxford and Cambridge. "Whizzer" White, who played with the pro Pittsburghs last year, was one of these. What's wrong with that?

Now I enjoy a well founded exposure of sport fraud as well as anybody. I deal myself a hand in the game sometimes. But Tunis' is an ill informed article salted with generality and error, with just enough truth to make a trap. In his so-called "amateur" Group 1 he cautiously lists most of the colleges which have been taking regular lickings, including Brown, Massachusetts Institute of Technology (which has no football team), Lehigh, Loyola of Chicago (which gave up football some years ago), Hobart, Williams, Swarthmore among 30 others.

Nobody resents Tunis' topic if he takes time to snoop up and sort his facts. It's a lot of fun to poke the football bigots and hear them yell by mail. But it's careless business to shoot sheep while gunning for the wolves. And I am surprised that some of the sheep have not shot Tunis right back again.

FENWAY FACE LIFTING TICKLES TED WILLIAMS

By JOE CASHMAN

It's going to be some 20 feet easier for Teddy Williams to hit home runs and 25 cents costlier for a lot of customers to get through the turnstiles to watch him do it next season.

For the second time since Tom Yawkey took over the Red Sox in 1933 the Jersey street orchard is to be remodelled.

And the happiest person in Boston is Theodore Francis Williams.

What is now the pavilion, an 85-cent section will be an extension of the grandstand in the future with individual seats replacing the long, backless planks. The 85-cent seat will disappear.

Also, the number of box seats will be increased between 700 and 800 by running them out from in back of first base down through the present bull pen and to the rightfield foul line.

BULL PEN IN CENTER

This will necessitate a centerfield bull pen which will be provided for between the front of the present centerfield stands and a new barrier which will be created by continuing a lowered and circular front wall of the new grandstand section all the way over to the centerfield exit gates.

These alterations won't increase the capacity of the park.

They will, however, greatly increase the revenue from a packed house.

And they'll bring every point of rightfield home run land 20 feet closer to the plate and Theodore Francis Williams, when he's swinging up there.

In making official announcement of the changes, Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins made no mention of their sensational freshman and the effect the new layout might have on his home-run total in future years.

They talked only about accommodating the public.

Cards, Reds In Flag Series

By the Associated Press

Roaring headlong into each other with a pair of seven-game winning streaks, the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals made ready today for a four-game series that probably will decide the National League pennant.

The Reds have the advantage of a 2½ game lead and the games will be played on their home grounds, Crosley Field, starting with a doubleheader tomorrow.

Cincinnati could lose three of the four games against the Cardinals and still win the pennant by beating Pittsburgh in three contests that remain at the end of the season.

But it must stop St. Louis at least once—an assignment on which both Cubs and Dodgers have failed within the last week.

The Cardinals, on the other hand, must win all their games, with the Reds, and three others remaining with the Cubs, to head off the leaders if the Reds should continue their mastery over the Pirates.

This could be done In 1935, the Cubs won 21 games in a row during September to squeeze into the championship. The Cardinals beat Chicago 9 to 1 yesterday for their seventh straight and thirteenth in 15 games.

As both clubs rested through today's open date, this was the standing:

| | W. | L. | Behind | to Play |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cincinnati | 93 | 54 | — | 7 |
| St. Louis | 89 | 57 | 3½ | 7(x) |

Johnny Cooney Hits 1st Homer

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS)—Boston's Bees gained an even break in a twin bill with the Giants when they took the nightcap, 5 to 3, as darkness halted the game at the end of five innings, after the Giants had captured the opener, 5 to 4.

Harry Gumbert gave the Bees seven hits in hanging up the victory in the first game. Johnny Cooney homered for Boston in the third, his first homer in 15 years of big league ball.

Boston's three-run outburst in the fifth frame of the nightcap off Wittig brought triumph in the abbreviated game.

Max West was struck on the head by a pitched ball. He was taken to the hospital to be x-rayed. Last reports on his condition were favorable.

Roslindale Faces Rocky Grid Road With Green Squad

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Things are not all they seem at Fallon Field where Coach Fred Murray holds daily practice for his fourth edition of the Roslindale high school squad—formerly termed the Little Green, a title to be abandoned this year.

The outfit is big both in size and number, but beyond that there are few cheerful notes.

In Roslindale's first season the boys did as well as could be expected for a new club. Two years back Murray turned in the surprise eleven of Hub ranks. Beaten only once, the Roslindale goal-line was unmarked. South Boston, with a championship team, produced a two-point safety to win by that smallest of grid margins and spoil an unscored on record.

NEW UNIFORMS

Last fall the Little Green weakened to the extent of dropping two decisions to South Boston and Brighton. If the boys can duplicate this mark, the slate will be termed most successful.

Along with an almost entirely new set of faces—only three veterans are back—the Murray crew will sport new uniforms. The new suits will be crimson and gold, the previous green garb conflicting too much with Roxbury Memorial.

"From all present appearances, every position on the team is wide open," says Coach Murray.

"We have a lot of big boys who are slow and a lot of fast boys who are light. I'm trying to mix them up to make some sort of a showing as well as break in a lot of youngsters for next season.

"If we can scrape through with a few victories, we'll be doing as well as I expect now."

FAYE MOVED BACK

Veteran Francis Faye, an end last year, is being groomed for a backfield position leaving his former wing post open for new candidates. A fine kicker and passer and practically the only triple threat on the squad, Faye looms as a certainty to hold down one of the ball carrier posts.

From the group of backs, Bub Sties appears to have the best chance of gaining first string rating. His all-round play has been outstanding in practice with Bob Ciaccia, one of the fastest boys on the squad, advancing as third choice.

Ed Lachinsky, a southpaw booter, Charlie Coyne and Ray Smith have been alternating as the next backfield choice.

With Faye moving back, the end posts have Larry Ballantine, Bill Bonner, John Osborne and John Waters seeking starting berths. Of this quartet, Ballantine and Bonner appear to have the edge while Frank Mahoney, Frank Hubbard and John Holmes will probably share the tackles.

CONNOLLY CAPABLE

At the guards, Murray has Eddie Lowe, Eddie Connolly and Henry Maguire. Lowe and Maguire, with Faye, complete the list of lettermen on the club.

Murray regards Connolly as one of the best linemen and if the two veterans regain last year's form, the 150-pounder may be shifted to another position.

George Canty gets the call at center over a large group of candidates working under Hal Kallenberg, former Roslindale pivot man.

Kallenberg, after spending the summer months on a Bees' farm, works with Murray in trying to build up the line, concentrating on the passers.

BILL CONN 2-1 OVER BETTINA

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25 (INS)—Another Mike Jacobs fistic extravaganza goes on at Forbes Field tonight where Billy Conn will match his boxing skill against Melio Bettina's slugging power for the second time. At stake is Conn's world light heavyweight championship which he won from Bettina last July.

Conn reigned a 2 to 1 favorite over the weekend. Bettina money is rather scarce but plenty is expected when the Beacon, N. Y., delegation hits town for the affair.

Both Johnny Ray, manager of the champ, and Jimmy Grippo, manager of Bettina, predicted knockout victories for their battlers. Conn and Bettina did likewise, so far as that goes but the big surprise will be if the Irishman does flash a K. O. wallop.

He's been working on a lethal right since he beat Gus Derazio in Philadelphia several weeks ago. He has yet to put a clean knockout on his record, his eight kayoes being of the technical variety.

Champion Giants Runnerup Packers Away to Fast Start

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP)—The New York Giants, pro football champions, and the runner-up Green Bay Packers already have shown they expect to take up this fall where they left off in last season's brilliant campaign.

Both are away to good starts and now tied for the top shot in their respective divisions of the league.

The Giants opened their title defense with a 13 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, and Green Bay cut loose with a 21 to 16 decision over the Chicago Bears.

The Eagles took a 3-0 lead on the Giants in the opening period when Hank Reese booted a field goal from the 12 but the resourceful champs countered with field goals by Ken Strong and Ward Cuff, then added a touchdown in the final quarter by Tuffy Leemans.

MANDERS STILL KICKING

The Packers spotted the Bears 13 points in the first half and then swarmed over them with three touchdowns in the third period.

Fumbles beat the Bears, giving the Packers their last two markers after they had marched 71 yards for their first score.

Milt Gantenbein recovered Joe Maniaci's fumble on the Bears' 11 and from there Green Bay pushed it over.

Shortly afterward Dick Schwiedler dropped a punt, and the ball rolled across the goal line where Tom Greenfield, Packer center, dropped on it for the third touchdown.

The Bears added their final three points on Jack Manders' 33-yard field goal in the last period.

Trailing 7 to 6 through three periods, Detroit smothered Brooklyn with three touchdowns in the last period for a 27 to 7 victory, putting the Lions into a first place tie with Green Bay in the Western division.

The Lions muffed two scoring chances early, then unleashed an aerial attack featuring rookie Johnny Pingel that brought victory. Jim Moscrip kicked three points after touchdowns from placement.

GOLDBERG DOES WELL

Marshall Goldberg, former All-America star of Pitsburgh, led the Chicago Cardinals to their first league decision, Pittsburgh's Pirates bowing by 10 to 0.

Goldberg, playing his first pro league game, cracked tackle for four yards in the first period for the game's only touchdown.

Regis Monahan added the other four points with a point after touchdown and a field goal from the 28-yard line.

In the only other league game of the week Brooklyn defeated Cleveland's Rams last Wednesday, 23 to 12.

JASPERS HARD TEST FOR H. C.

WORCESTER, Sept. 25—One of the best opening game attractions in several college seasons will be unfurled here at Fitton Field on Saturday when Manhattan invades to test the Holy Cross eleven.

The game will give the first indication of whether or not the Purple will be up to the championship standard claimed by enthusiastic backers.

Coach Joe Sheeketski, here many years as Dr. Eddie Anderson's aide, will send the first machine he's produced as head coach against the Jaspers.

Holy Cross will have some great backs, headed by versatile Ronnie Cahill, working behind a good line, and will be a favorite.

However, Herb Kopf, in his second year at Manhattan, is said to have a light but highly polished team and with the Purple likely to show some ruggedness there's a chance for an upset before the title race is well underway.

Scrimmages Prepare B. C. For Opener

A long scrimmage between the freshman and varsity groups today was to start Boston College's preparation for the opener with Lebanon Valley at the Heights on Saturday.

Another scrimmage is billed tomorrow, with a regulation game on Wednesday. Coach Frank Leahy intends to push the squads hard, for with the exception of quarterback Dave Lucey all are in good condition after several days rest from contact work.

The starting Eagle backfield for the opening game is just about set, and it's the same quartet which Leahy considered his best the first day of practice nearly four weeks ago. Toczylowski, junior letterman from Lynn, is quarterback. Vito Ananis is right halfback, Charlie O'Rourke is left halfback, and Pete Cignetti is the fullback.

HAWKS TOUGH 1ST FOE FOR HUSKY GRID TEAM

A Northeastern club which shapes up definitely weaker than last year opens its season at Kent Field, Brookline, next Saturday afternoon against Cleo O'Donnell's powerful St. Anselm's Hawks.

Cold facts reveal a story far from encouraging for the Huskies.

St. Anselm's, undefeated last year and with a 40 to 6 triumph over Northeastern on its record, has most of its team back with enough outstanding sophomores to fill the few gaps left by graduation.

Northeastern, on the other hand, which had its offense built around Capt. Jim Connolly last fall and its defense centered around Arnie Kaufman, one of the best small college guards in the country, is sorely pressed for key men.

HARDING HAS BIG JOB

Coach Jimmy Dunn, in trying to find a tailback, has finally settled on Ken Harding who was the blocker last year. The tailback in the Harlow offense which Dunn uses must be a triple threat and the spearhead of the attack. This puts quite a load on Harding's shoulders and the offensive success of the Huskies this fall will depend largely on Ken.

In the line, the Huskies have several worries. Connie Sullivan and Connie Johnson on the wings and Jerry DiNapoli at right guard are the regulars back. The other four posts will be filled by reserves or sophomores with very little left over as secondary strength.

Out at Weston Coach Pat Hanley is bringing his green squad along slowly because the Terriers do not open their season until a week from Saturday when Franklin and Marshall will furnish the opposition at Fenway Park.

ONLY 2 SENIORS ON TEAM

Pat will have only two seniors in his starting lineup, Capt. Paul Sullivan at right tackle and Ray Needham at center. The only other senior in the entire squad, Joe Giannotti, will be held in reserve at left tackle.

Pat has 26 promising sophomores and 12 juniors from which to draw his nine other starters.

An unofficial first club at present would find George Murphy and Joe Lanata at the ends, Paul Sullivan and Ed Rooney at the tackles, Charlie Cremens and Ray Hartley at the guards with Ray Needham at center.

Johnny Connearney has the edge at quarterback, Jimmy Cassidy and Johnny Wedemeyer are the ranking halfbacks and Ralph Salvati looms as the fullback.

Jumbo Sophs Get Chance

Coach Lew Manly greeted a rested Tufts squad this afternoon as sessions were cut to one two-hour period per day with the start of classes. These single sessions will be held from four to six o'clock afternoons, finishing up under the floodlights.

The development of the new sophomore material will capture much of Manly's time during the next two weeks preparatory to the opener with Middlebury. It would not surprise if two second-year men are on the starting lineup.

Al Della Paolera at center is one of the few who seems sure of a permanent position, and there is a chance for sophomores to edge into any position except right guard, covered by Ralph Sherry, and the backfield position held by Capt. Arthur Griffin.

Maine Ringman Puts Cash in Real Estate

By Associated Press

Paul Junior, the Maine lightweight, has just completed a $26,000 apartment in Lewiston, bought with his savings from 300 fights.

THE SERIES between the Reds and Cardinals this week should about settle the National League pennant race . . . The closeness of the pennant scramble has given most of the magnates a profitable season . . . The Dodgers, who have never been serious pennant contenders, have drawn record crowds . . . The Bees had enough sting left to knock off the Reds in two games during their recent road trip . . . College football is trynig hard to smash its way into the limelight, but it will not succeed until the World Series is out of the way . . . Even Americans can only get wildly excited about one sport at a time . . . There is now talk that baseball should shorten its season to make way for professional football . . . This thought is rather silly . . . As long as baseball clubs can make money in September, the big league owners will not bow out for professional football or anything else . . . ## Billy Conn Should Win Tonight

BILLY CONN, world's light heavyweight champion, should be successful in defending his title against Melio Bettina in a 15-round bout in Pittsburgh tonight . . . Early in the Summer Conn won from Bettina in a stirring battle in the New York Garden . . . He met a fate similar to that experienced by Mike McTigue, Jack Delaney, Young Stribling and Tommy Loughran when these boxers, only a bit better than light heavyweights, gave away weight to Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney and were beaten . . . One needs 190 pounds of fighting flesh and bone if one is to conquer Louis.

Louis can punch with each hand and also box . . . In addition he is only 25 years of age, and is improving with each start . . . Mere talk and hope will not vanquish that type of ring star . . . # IRAMERK TILTS AT ARENA

Natick promises to play a major role in the disposition of prizes in tonight's Irish-American A. A. boxing tournament at the Arena.

In the 118-pound division, Charlie Morris of Natick, former flyweight title winner in many special tournaments, will be a favorite to come out on top in a class which includes Tony Coast, Taunton; George Martell, Hyde Park; John Dunn, South Boston, and John Picorello, South Boston.

PETERS BACK

In the 126-pound division are two clever boys from the town Eddie Casey made famous, Mike Peters and Gen Morris. Peters was the star of last week's battling at the Arena.

Other boys in this class are: Bobby Gilman, Boston; Tommy Watson, Lexington; Jackie Hurd, Boston; Arthur Samara, Woburn; Joe Edwards, Roxbury, and Don Cerreria, Providence.

Another stellar little battler from Natick will appear in the 135-pound competition. He is Carl Intinarelli. He's a newcomer but critics say he will rank with the best in amateur circles before the Golden Gloves tournaments are finished.

Tonight Carl will try to wade his way through Jackie Smallwood, Boston; Coleman Walsh, South Boston; Ernie Silvia, Taunton; Kenneth Simmons, Boston; Thomas Ranier, Woburn, and Louis Reposa, Fall River.

8 CLASSES LISTED

Eight classes in all will be contested, with the four lighter classes open and the four heavier classes for novices.

Among the entrants in the novice classes are Louis Blumsack, Roxbury; Joe Costello and Ralph Ferris, South Boston; and Walter Weiss, Lawrence, 160 pounds; Joe Zenovich, Bridgewater; Nat Sullivan, South Boston, and Roy Darden, Alleton, 175 pounds.

AHA Accepts NHL Ice Code

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP) — The American Hockey Association has formally ratified Omaha's application for a franchise, making the circuit a seven-club organization for the impending season.

The board of governors officially accepted Omaha's bid yesterday at a league meeting during which the National Hockey League's playing code was adopted in its entirety.

The association voted to discard its "sudden death" playoff system in tie games. Henceforth two overtime periods of 10 minutes each will be played in case of a tie.

Castoff Gets Hill Revenge On Old Mates

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 25 (AP)—Baseball's old drama, the castoff's revenge, got another showing when Ray Starr, Fort Worth's old man, tamed the Nashville Vols, his old mates, 10-2, in the opening Dixie series game.

The veteran, sold to Fort Worth by Nashville early in the season when it appeared illness would dampen his mound form, had a 10-0 shutout stored away with two out in the ninth inning, but a fielder misjudged a batter's screamer to left and let in a run.

Starr struck out nine batters.

because they couldn't get a box or grandstand seat. Often we could take care of them in the pavilion or bleachers but they wouldn't go out there.

"Boston is very definitely a grandstand town. We haven't had nearly enough $1.65 and $1.10 seats to fill demands.

BLEACHERS STILL .55

"Moreover, the disappearance of the pavilion works a hardship on nobody. Those who can afford to pay no more than 85 cents can go in the spacious bleachers for 55 cents."

No mention, you see, of Williams.

But it will be strictly in terms of Williams that John Q. Public will think when he reads the news.

For Williams has become the biggest figure in Boston baseball since the Ruthian era of 20 years ago and the fans will always talk of this change as one that made it easier for Ted to hit home runs rather than one made to increase grandstand capacity.

While amazing the baseball world by blasting 14 Fenway home runs into the most remote rightfield section in the league, Teddy, being only human, has now and then expressed the wish that the barrier wasn't so far away.

It's unlikely that anything he ever said about it had anything to do with the decision to change the park.

On the other hand, what he's done with his big bat couldn't help but influence the decision.

For the Sox bosses realize as well as the next fellow that it looks as though they have another Ruth on their hands, and it's natural they should wish to give him a fighting chance to set home run records.

However, with the greater part of the rightfield barrier still to be 375 feet or more from the plate after the changes are made, it remains to be seen how much Williams will be helped.

It's strange but true that few players who had parks changed for them ever profited thereby.

Take the old Braves Field for example. Judge Fuchs moved in the left field bleachers to make it easier for Wally Berger to hit home runs for the Allston entry. But it turned out that the change only benefited visiting clubs and the stands were moved back.

The White Sox changed their park to accommodate Al Simmons. Al had one of his poorest years, visiting clubs made merry and the Chicago management went back to the old distances.

Williams is the Sox' only right-field home run hitter. The Yanks have four. The Indians have three. The Tigers have a couple.

But, happen what may, this change is to be permanent.

SPORT INTERLUDES

By BILL GRIMES

Regardless of the calibre of the attractions, exhibition golf matches are dead pigeons in this area.

As a tribute to Freddie Corcoran, the local papers gave the Snead-McSpaden vs. Nelson-Picard a "spread" which the state open championship couldn't get at this season . . . Football and baseball were pushed back on the classified "ad" page.

The match was a "natural" . . . "Lord" Byron Nelson, the United States, Massachusetts, Western and North and South open titleholder, and Henry Picard, P. G. A. champion, who is leading the pros in the race for the Harry Vardon Memorial Trophy, played Sam Snead, most colorful personality today in the Royal and Ancient game, and Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Winchester, Canadian open titlist.

Despite the build up and the attraction, the match didn't draw 2000 paying customers . . . There are too many courses in this section for golfers to go for exhibition matches . . .

However, if the U. S. G. A. or the P. G. A. schedules a championship in almost any section of New England it will be a paying proposition for all concerned.

SNEAD STEALS SHOW

Slammin' Sam Snead stole the show at Belmont . . . He was really bearing down to give the customers a run for their $1.10 . . . And he proved beyond any question he is the longest hitter in the game . . .

On the 18th tee yesterday afternoon, Sam was told to lean into one . . . He hit one on the button, just short of the road which is an even 300 yards from the tee and the ball then ran 40 yards beyond the service driveway . . . Henry Picard made a very favorable impression with the golf enthusiasts during his two days at Belmont . . . True, he wasn't playing up to his usual form, but his personality put him over the gallery.

For the first time in the annals of Newport, R. I., a native son has made what has all the earmarks of being a correct prediction . . . Col. Dave Egan has named Frankie Frisch as the successor to Bill Terry as manager of the Giants . . . Frisch belongs with the Giants . . . He's a New Yorker . . . A graduate of Fordham . . . Lives in New Rochelle . . . Broke into professional baseball with the Giants . . . And he was graduated from the McGraw College of Baseball with a Summa Cum Laude degree.

Bill Terry wants to get up in the front office . . . Maybe he has something there . . . Terry has never clicked with the "boys" who put 'em in or keep 'em away from the Polo Grounds . . . Frisch would be a natural with the Giants.

WAIVERS ON STARS? YES!

Joe Cronin used good judgment when he refused to play a double header against the Athletics . . . With his pitchers going as they are, Joe can get enough headaches out of one game . . . And, regardless of opinions to the contrary there are ways of getting waivers by the American and National leagues on any ball player, whether he is a Joe Cronin or a Luke McGlook.

Between the popping off of Frenchy Bordagaray and Al Simmons, Manager Bill McKechnie will probably spend the off season at some rest resort . . . If Bordagaray and Simmons could live up to their dressing room broadcasts, Joe Di Maggio wouldn't lose a second getting back into one of his father's fishing boats . . .

ONE FOR OUR SIDE—Harold McSpaden of Winchester bunts one dead to the pin as he and Sam Snead pin a 5 and 3 defeat on Byron Nelson and Henry Picard at Belmont Country Club.

Down at the Salem Country Club, Harold McSpaden started the defense of his New England Professional Golfers' Association title today . . . "Jug" is tops among the New England pros . . . Or at least he has had the Indian sign on them for three years . . . Incidentally, there isn't a course in these parts that can compare with Salem for condition . . . Since the watering system was installed, Salem is the top ranking Greater Boston course.

DUROCHER PROVES WORTH

Lippy Leo Durocher, Springfield's gift to major league baseball, has won his spurs as a manager this season by keeping the Daffiness Boys in the first division of the National League . . . At the moment the Dodgers are in third place, having eased the Cubs out of that berth by taking a doubleheader yesterday from the Phillies . . .

The powers that be will have trouble trying to give Leo Durocher the swerve during the coming off season . . . Two of Bob Quinn's minor league managers, Fresco Thompson, Hartford, and Johnny Rosar, Bradford, Pa., have been in a huddle with him since the close of their seasons . . . Bob Quinn is a very patient listener . . . But . . .

Pets to Battle Alling Girls

Springfield will send its third softball team to Boston to meet the Olympets tomorrow when the Alling Rubber Girls clash with Boston's prides at the Garden.

The Fisk Girls from Springfield defeated the Pets on their first appearance here, 6-3, but later the Pets reversed the verdict, 11-5. The other Springfield team, the Spauldings, were trounced, 12-4, by the Pets.

That the Alling Girls are in for a similar cuffing was forecast today when it was announced that Southpaw Mary Pratt would do the bowling for the Pets.

The Wollaston girl has won seven and lost only one this year. The Pets will be seeking their eighth straight victory.

BUT IF YOU ONLY GO EXPLORING UP TO TH' NORTH POLE EVERY TEN YEARS, WHAT KIND OF WORK DO YOU DO IN BETWEEN TH' TEN YEARS?—THAT'S A LONG TIME, OR DO YOU HAVE TO SPEND IT THAWING OUT?
OUR UNCLE OTIS IS ALWAYS AT HOME LIKE YOU!—OUR AUNT HAS A MILLINERY STORE AND UNCLE OTIS JUST TAKES THE PEKE OUT FOR A SLOW WALK BECAUSE IT'S OLD!
UMM-KAY-F WHY DON'T YOU GOSLINGS GO UP TO MY DEN AND LOOK AT THE HUNTING TROPHIES ON THE WALL?

1. Safe! Lifeboat from the S. S. Kafiristan, British, approaches the S. S. American Farmer, bearing some of the crew of 35 forced to abandon ship when the Kafiristan was torpedoed by Nazi sub 400 miles off the Scilly Islands. Six of crew lost lives when lifeboat upset

2. Onto the American Farmer go the rescued crew members. German sub hovered in vicinity, directing crew to the waiting vessel.

3. Sub Done!—British navy plane, snapped by American Farmer crew member, appeared on scene suddenly, dove at Nazi sub, machine-gunned men on deck and then sank her with well-placed bombs. Double tragedy of naval warfare!
